

REED TO CONTINUE INQUIRIES UNDER OLD RESOLUTION

Missouri Declares Robinson Measure Gives Him Power to Open Pennsylvania Ballot Boxes.

MAY INVESTIGATE COLORADO ELECTION

Reed of Pennsylvania, However, Thinks Filibuster Has Killed Power of Special Committee.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 20-22, Wyatt Building, WASHINGTON, March 4.—Investigation of the senatorial campaigns in Pennsylvania and Illinois and probably Colorado, will go on, despite the defeat of the resolution to prolong the life of the Senate Fund Investigating Committee, said Senator Reed of Missouri today after the adjournment of Congress.

He called a meeting of his committee for 4 o'clock this afternoon to decide what course shall be followed. Reed declared that he was convinced that his committee had the right to open the Pennsylvania ballot boxes and count the votes under a resolution introduced two months ago by Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader.

"The Supreme Court's decision in the Mal Dougherty case plainly says that a Senate committee is a continuing body," the Missouri senator declared. "What has happened is this: When the filibuster started it created in the minds of witnesses who might be recalcitrant the idea that this committee's authority would die on March 4. The committee has trouble with these witnesses now, but I don't doubt for a minute that we have the authority to continue our investigations under my old resolution."

Power in Robinson Resolution.

"Do your resolutions give you the authority to open the ballot boxes in Pennsylvania?"

"No; that authority comes from the resolution Senator Robinson of Arkansas introduced last January empowering the committee to investigate the charges made by Mr. Wilson, the Democratic candidate in the Pennsylvania election against Mr. Vare," Reed replied.

"The second paragraph of that resolution authorized the committee to take and preserve all evidence as to the various matters alleged in Mr. Wilson's petition, including any alleged fraud, irregularity, unlawful expenditure of money and intimidation of voters or other facts affecting the result of the election."

"That clause, other facts affecting the result of the election, gives us authority to open the ballot boxes and count the votes," Reed declared. "I insisted that this clause be included in the resolution."

No Decision as to Colorado.

"Will you go to Colorado?"

"I have said that we might go into another state and I did not mention the name. Senator Phillips said on the floor that the committee might go into his State and he ought to know. When we shall begin our investigations, I do not know. I have a hunch that it will take me about six weeks. It will be some time before we start again, but that's all up to the committee."

Reed of Pennsylvania, in a statement after adjournment, took direct issue with the Missouri over the further authority of the committee.

"I understand that some members of the investigating committee contend that they have the right to proceed despite the fact that the resolution was not passed," the Pennsylvania senator said. "It is my opinion that should they attempt to proceed under that assumption, they will meet with a flat refusal which will demonstrate that they are wrong. The mere fact that they strove so hard to pass the resolution is proof that they needed it to give them authority."

"What if the committee insists on opening the ballot boxes?"

"Were the committee members strong enough they could break down the doors of any home," the Pennsylvania senator replied, "but I believe they are gentlemen."

SUIT OVER JAY GOULD ESTATE SETTLED AFTER TEN YEARS

NEWARK, N. J., March 4.—Vice Chancellor Backus has approved a compromise settlement of the 10-year-old litigation over the $34,000,000 estate of the late Jay Gould. The compromise was the result of an agreement among 45 lawyers representing the various members of the Gould family.

Under its provisions $17,500,000 will be paid to the estate by the executors and trustees for all taxes and waste and mismanagement, and becomes effective upon the approval of New York courts.

The litigation began in 1916, when Frank J. Gould and the Duchess Anna Talley Reed, two of the six children of Jay Gould, took exception to an accounting filed, charging that many millions had been wasted and lost.

ball squad and had won his letter for two weeks, because he said, he had too much studying to do. At the fraternity house it was said he had been away each night for several weeks until a late hour.

A warrant charging first degree burglary was issued. The student will be taken to City Hospital during the afternoon for a medical examination in view of his avowed lapse of memory. He has accepted this with resignation, saying, "I know no one will ever believe my story."

INTOXICATED DRIVER PAROLED AFTER 62-DAY SENTENCE

Edward F. Stegmann, With Family of Five to Support, Will Serve Only Two Days.

Edward F. Stegmann, a chauffeur, of 2720A North Garrison avenue, was sentenced to 62 days in the workhouse by Police Judge Beck today on charges of driving an automobile while intoxicated and speeding.

On Stegmann's plea that he has a wife and four children to support, Judge Beck agreed to a parole in the 60-day sentence for driving while intoxicated on condition that Stegmann spend tomorrow and Sunday in the workhouse for speeding. Upon being released Stegmann will be required to report to the Court periodically for a year and further traffic violations or other misbehavior will result in revocation of the parole, Judge Beck said.

Stegmann was arrested on Jan. 3 on Grand boulevard and North Market street by motor cycle policemen, who testified today that he was driving 40 miles an hour in a zigzag course south on Grand boulevard. City Hospital physicians examined Stegmann after his arrest, testified he was intoxicated. Stegmann denied both charges and declared that the odor of alcohol on his person resulted from his expelling a quantity of non-freeze fluid used in the radiator of his truck on his clothing.

TARPOON INN, FLORIDA, BURNS Two Adjoining Houses Destroyed; Damage $10,000.

By the Associated Press.

TARPOON SPRINGS, Fla., March 4.—The Tarpoon Inn, one of the best known resort hotels on the west coast of Florida, was destroyed by fire today with an estimated loss of $150,000. Although the hotel, containing 105 rooms, was practically filled with guests at the time, there was no loss of life or injuries.

The hotel was owned by Frank E. Malone, of New York, and was insured for $90,000. Two adjoining houses were burned down before fire departments from Clear Water, St. Petersburg, Dunedin and New Port Richey, co-operating with the local fire forces, were able to control the flames. The Tarpoon Inn was a frame structure six stories high. It was built 15 years ago. The St. Louis American League baseball team is engaged in spring training here.

Senate Adjourns Without Action on $93,000,000 Deficiency Bill

interests in Colorado, and it has been suggested that perhaps the two interlock.

Colorful and dramatic scenes attended the death of the session in the Senate.

Virtually every member was in his seat. The galleries were packed and breathless, and the atmosphere was charged with the tense and bitter feeling which has been aroused by the filibuster that had shackled the first days of the session.

23 Republicans and Blease.

The manner in which the filibustering group, consisting of 23 Republicans and one Democrat (Cole Blease of South Carolina), had resolved to carry it through to the bitter end, regardless of consequences to themselves, their opponents or the country, conferred the spectacle of a bulldog setting its teeth in the throat of a larger animal while both staggered over the precipice.

"It is customary for the Vice President at the beginning and ending of sessions to address the Senate on an appropriate subject," said Dawes in his speech. "Comments the chair has to make on this occasion will be very brief."

"The chair regards the present legislative session as primarily due to defective rules of the Senate under which a minority can prevent a majority from exercising their constitutional right of bringing measures to a vote."

"It is the only great parliamentary body in the world where such a situation exists."

"On this closing day of the second session of the Sixty-ninth Congress, the chair commends to the Senate the rules which have made on the first day of the first session."

Curtis of Kansas Comes First.

THE temporary break in the filibuster came at 1:33 o'clock last night when Senator Curtis of Kansas, the majority leader, moved that the Senate go into executive session. This move followed the defeat of the proposal to displace the Missouri. Reed's resolution with the public buildings bill. In voting down the proposal, initiated by Senator Reed of Pennsylvania in the hope that the "poisonous" provision would entice the weaker brethren on both sides of the chamber, the advocates of the Missouri Reed's resolution retained an almost unbroken front.

Thats vote was 47 to 36 against the building bill. Bruce of Maryland was the only Democrat to vote for the proposal.

The executive session lasted an hour and the Senate recessed until 3 o'clock this morning. The procedure made the Reed resolution the unfinished business when the Senate reconvened this morning.

Reed of Pennsylvania and Moses of New Hampshire, exhausted by the 37-hour filibuster, claimed the recess was a victory for themselves, but said it was not a surrender by the majority.

"I simply recognized the inevitable," the Pennsylvania Reed declared.

Missouri Refuses to Give Up.

Reed of Missouri stated that he had not given up the fight and that he would continue his resistance.

the Pennsylvania's appeal should not be tabled.

Then, for no reason at all, the veto message was forgotten and Caraway of Kansas charged the Pennsylvania Reed with seeking to hide corruption in Pennsylvania and declared that he would be willing to have any sort of an investigation of campaigns in Arkansas.

Caraway, with his usual poisonous drawl, opened a blistering reply to the Pennsylvania Reed's previous attacks upon Southern states.

"He inherits his hatred for Arkansas," Caraway said. "The worst enemy my State ever had came from Pennsylvania. He stole everything that could be carried away, and the remainder he burned. No name is so detested in my State as that of Clayton Powell." (Powell was the carpetbagger over North Arkansas.)

"If you heard of him," said Reed of Pennsylvania.

"That's incredible. With all the Senator's lack of information on contemporary subjects, it is difficult to believe he is so ignorant of the history of his State as not to have heard of Clayton Powell," said Caraway.

"He made more noise in the world than anybody who ever lived from Pennsylvania. He was hated by more people than any other Pennsylvanian, which the Senator will agree, is a rare distinction."

"Hatred" His "Real Passion."

Adverting again to the Pennsylvania's attacks on the Southern states, Caraway pursued: "His hatred of the South is the only real passion the Senator has, aside from his passion to protect certain people, whose names we all know. However, if he came here for that purpose, I have no complaint. We will all agree that he is doing it well." Caraway's allusions to protection referred to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

Caraway offered to ask for unanimous consent to appoint the Pennsylvania Reed a committee of one to investigate the last election in Arkansas, saying Reed could have "full permission to count all the ballots and interview every Negro whom he thinks has been deprived of his rights."

"It wouldn't be necessary for me to go down there to count them," he said. "The Government cannot carry them all up here in its pocket."

"If I did," replied Caraway, "every one of them would be an honest believer of the ballots in the boxes which the Senator is so anxious to keep us from opening."

"Everything goes back to the pocket in the Republican party," observed Senator Bruce (Dem.) of Maryland.

The acridness of the morning repartee, the scant attempts to veil the venomous feeling which surged under the surface, was a very fair indication of the supercharged state of mind in which the two-day filibuster had left the Senate.

Reed Calls Up Deficiency Bill.

In a manifestly earnest attempt to save valuable legislation which was on the verge of being sacrificed by the filibuster, Reed of Missouri at 9:40 a. m. asked for unanimous consent for an immediate vote on the second deficiency bill.

Lenroot (Rep.) of Wisconsin inquired if it was the intention of the Democrats to refer the bill to resolution as an amendment to the bill. Ashurst (Dem.) of Arizona, replied that it was not.

"Speak for yourself," shouted Senator Robinson, Virginia. "I don't know whether it is or not. If one man is running the Senate, I'd like to know it. If we have to make promises here to the Senator from Pennsylvania in order to get permission to transmit the bill to the Senate to agree to vote on his resolution immediately after the vote on the deficiency bill."

As he has done every time a proposal has been made to vote on the Reed resolution, the Pennsylvania senator objected to the Robinson motion as amended.

Merely to protect his party, although he was against the filibuster, the Pennsylvania was conducted, Curtis for the purpose of the record, said that he understood that the Senator from Missouri would have objected to the Robinson agreement if it had not provided for a vote on the resolution.

From Bill Veto Brought Up.

Obstructing to the last, while only three hours remained, Reed of Pennsylvania moved that the Senate take up the President's veto message on the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill.

The majority recognized this move for what it was—another dilatory proposal designed to consume precious minutes—but it worked for a time.

As a matter of courtesy the Senate, under ordinary circumstances, is expected to take cognizance of a veto message, but it was straining etiquette to the breaking point to ask that a veto be considered when only one hour and a half of the session remained.

Robinson of Arkansas asked that the veto message be laid on the table. To do this would take only a majority vote, and Johnson of California objected on the ground that a veto should not be treated in such a cavalier manner.

The Pennsylvania, still obstructing, raised the point of order that a two-thirds vote was needed to table a veto. The chair ruled that his point was not well taken, and the Senate proceeded to take up the bill to overrule the veto. Pittman of Nevada moved to table the Reed appeal. The Senate, now in a legislative snarl, voted on the Pittman motion and, 30 to 31, decided that bill carried a $50,000 appropriation which he had asked for South Carolina.

Reed of Missouri then requested unanimous consent that the bill be passed in its present printed form, without committee or another amendment. Both Shortridge (Rep.) of California, and Wheeler (Dem.) of Montana, objected.

Fifteen minutes later, Curtis again asked for unanimous consent to vote on the bill and committee amendments. It was 10 o'clock. Congress had only two hours of life left, and desperate efforts were being made to save the bill. Reed of Missouri seconded the request, and put it in the form of a motion that, without objection, the bill be now voted on and passed.

Dawes Tries to Jam It Through.

Vice President Dawes made a bold and Spartan effort to jam the bill through. In a continuous sentence, so rapid that his words could hardly be distinguished, he shouted: "Without objection the bill will now be considered as having passed the Senate; the chair has the honor to announce that the bill is passed."

As he uttered the words, Howell (Rep.) of Nebraska, was rushing down the center aisle: "Mr. President, I object."

Cries of "No, you can't do that," "You can't do that," were heard from Dawes from all over the floor, and with a grimace of resignation he announced that the bill would be reconsidered.

Walsh of Massachusetts leaped into the picture with a sizzling blast.

"I object," he shouted. "I don't intend to surrender on an issue of principle because of an appropriation bill. For two weeks more than two-thirds of this Senate has stood here and tried to get a vote on a resolution to investigate Republican corruption in Pennsylvania. For two weeks less than one-third has been the right to vote."

The gentlemen thought they could press us to the wall, and in the last minute apply the lash of appropriation bills to our backs."

"I object, and I demand that the President call an extra session of Congress in order that we can fight to a finish the civil war which we are engaged in here—a civil war in which Pennsylvania and a few other states have attempted to say that the Government cannot function unless they get what they want."

Warren, five minutes later, made another appeal to the Senate to accept the Missouri Reed's unanimous consent proposal.

"Because I value liberty more than appropriation bills, I object," cried Walsh of Massachusetts. "I demand that the President call an extra session, refuse to pass laws under duress, without the slightest opportunity for consideration. I refuse to vote on important bills under conditions dictated by Pennsylvania. New Hampshire and a small combination of states."

Demands a Free Vote.

"Massachusetts demands a free vote in this body. And I want to call the country's attention to the necessity of rules which will make a legislative body of it."

"I fully agree with the Senator on the necessity," interposed Vice President Dawes, emphatically while the Senate and the galleries roared with laughter.

It was two years ago today that the Vice President, standing on the same rostrum where he now sat, delivered the inaugural address which he planned his campaign for reform of the Senate rules. The last two days had furnished him with his best talking point.

Attention was called, during the morning, to the fact that an authorization for a $1,000,000 post office for Kansas City was an item in one of the bills which had been sacrificed by the filibuster. This has an especial interest, because Kansas City is the home of Senator Reed, and it was well known that he could have got the bill passed by surrendering to the filibusters on the corruption issue.

Glass Requests Consent.

At 10:55 o'clock Glass requested a unanimous consent agreement whereby the Senate would proceed to consider the public buildings bill at 11 o'clock and, after 15 minutes' debate, vote on the bill and the pending amendments.

Reed of Pennsylvania first asked for a vote on the presidential veto before taking up the buildings bill and then apparently seeing a sinister motive in the phraseology of the Glass proposal, asked in the agreement proposed a vote on the bill as printed.

"I said the bill and the pending amendments," Glass replied.

"Then I must object," Mr. President. I will not have the Reed resolution put on to it as an amendment," the Pennsylvania senator declared.

Thus died another chance to break the deadlock on the buildings bill.

These maneuvers consumed about 10 precious minutes.

Senator Ernst of Kentucky, chairman of the Committee on Privileges and Elections, obtained the floor to present the report from his committee on the credentials of Senator-elect Frank L. Smith of Illinois and William S. Vare of Pennsylvania. The report merely stated that the credentials appeared to be in good form.

Reed of Missouri asked if the report referred to credentials or to the right of the men to take a seat in the Senate and when he was informed by Caraway, a Democratic member of the committee that the report referred only to the credentials and had no bearing on the rights of the holders to a seat, he said, he would not object to the acceptance of the report.

Lobby Inquiry Approved.

At 11:10 o'clock Glass, by unanimous consent, brought up his resolution directing the Banking and Currency Committee to investigate charges of lobbying in connection with the passage of the banking bill, and the resolution was agreed to.

From that time forward the session was marked by a hot fire between the forces of the two Reps. Pat Harrison of Mississippi launched a satirical demand upon Ernst for a report from that committee on the credentials of Senator Gould of Maine and Senator-elect Vare of Pennsylvania and Smith of Illinois.

"It is appropriate," said the Mississippi sharpshooter, "that the Senator from Kentucky should make the report, for he is one of the unlucky 15 who voted against the slush fund resolution, and it is appropriate, too, that he should make it in the midst of the turmoil raised by the Senator from Pennsylvania."

Harrison Twits Pennsylvania.

Harrison then cut loose with his best sarcasm against Reed of Pennsylvania. In biting phrases, he laid at Reed's door the responsibility for the defeat of the alien property bill, the second deficiency bill and the public buildings bill. He twisted Reed for his failure to re-into the record the letter of former Gov. Pinchot declaring that the nomination and election of Vare had been obtained by corrupt methods.

He described the contest for the Republican nomination in Pennsylvania as a fight between the political machine of Dave Reed and Andy Mellon and the machine headed by Vare, and associated that one was as corrupt as the other.

"The letter of Gov. Pinchot," thundered Harrison, "deserves to be read and to be branded on the breast of the Senator from Pennsylvania, but even then it wouldn't do him any harm."

Harrison taunted Reed with the fact that he had opposed Vare in the primary. The Senator now, he asserted, was fighting Vare's battles because he wanted the support of the Vare machine for his candidacy for re-election next year.

Again and again Harrison returned with telling effect to the Pinchot denunciation of Vare.

"Election Bought and Stolen."

"Listen to this," he shouted. "Gov. Pinchot said, 'I am convinced the nomination was partly bought and partly stolen.'"

Senator Phillips (Rep.) of Colorado glibly upped with a question.

"Oh, I'll get to him in a moment," said Harrison, referring to Phillips. "He has been squirming in his seat. If he doesn't watch out we'll have him on the run."

He asked whether Phillips would consent to have the name of Colorado written into the Reed resolution as one of the states to be investigated.

"Will the Senator also write in the name of Tennessee?" demanded Phillips. "Yes," flashed Harrison. "We'll write in Tennessee, and if you will write in Colorado we'll get together and pass it."

That gave Reed of Missouri his cue. He at once asked for unanimous consent to the consideration of his resolution with the states of Pennsylvania, Illinois, Colorado and Missouri specifically written into it.

"And Mississippi and Alabama," asked Reed of Pennsylvania. "Yes, those states also," said the Missouriian, without hesitation.

"And will the Senator permit investigation to be made by the Committee on Privileges and Elections?" asked Reed of Pennsylvania.

A guffaw from the Democratic side was his answer.

In an interlude, the President and Elections Committee press reports upholding the right of the Senate to investigate, and declaring that the committee on the cases of Smith and Vare would place them on the roll beginning at noon today.

Only Half An Hour to Go.

The session had now but an hour to go. The veteran Warren asked that a resolution be passed certain appropriations for the Veterans' Bureau and the Bureau of Prisons be adopted by unanimous consent.

"I am not frightened by the word 'veterans,'" interrupted Walsh of Massachusetts. "The Walsh of Massachusetts," the speaker in order to explain his position.

cue. He at once asked for unanimous consent to the immediate consideration of his resolution with the states of Pennsylvania, Illinois, Colorado and Tennessee specifically written into it.

"And Mississippi and Alabama also?" asked Reed of Pennsylvania.

"Yes, those states also," agreed the Missouriian, without hesitation.

"And will the Senator permit the investigation to be made by the Committee on Privileges and Elections?" asked Reed of Pennsylvania.

A guffaw from the Democratic side was his answer.

In an interlude, the Privileges and Elections Committee presented reports upholding the right of Gould of Maine to his seat, and declaring that the certificates of Vare and Smith were in proper form. The Gould report was accepted, but no action was taken on the cases of Smith and Vare. The effect of Smith and Vare is merely to place them on the payroll beginning at noon today.

Only Half An Hour to Go.

The session had now but half an hour to go. The veteran Warren asked that a resolution continuing certain appropriations for the Veterans' Bureau and the Bureau of Pensions be adopted by unanimous consent.

"I am not frightened by the word 'veterans,'" interrupted Walsh of Massachusetts. "I object," Walsh demanded the right to speak in order to explain his position.

Warren protested against what he called the "robbery" of veterans and pensioners. He moved that his resolution be taken up and passed.

Walsh retorted that the motion was out of order, and the Vice President, whose rulings throughout showed no partiality toward either side, upheld him.

Reed of Pennsylvania asked that the rules be suspended so that the resolution might be passed. Harrisson of Ohio moved that the resolution be taken up and passed.

Walsh started to speak, but Warren went to him and laid his hand pleadingly on his shoulder. "I will not say anything to you in private, sir," Walsh told him. "I will not say anything to you in public," Walsh declared. "I will not say anything to you in public," Walsh declared. "I will not say anything to you in public," Walsh declared.

These two men and a few of their associates," he charged, "have kept us here day and night."

MILLER FOUND GUILTY BUT JURY DISAGREES AS TO DAUGHTERY

peared shortly after the jury arrived. This is the sixth anniversary of Daugherty's inauguration as a member of Harding's Cabinet.

History of Two Trials Held Within Four Months.

Daugherty and Miller were charged with having received $7,000,000 worth of property seized under the trading with the enemy act after having received, according to the Government, "hypocritical injections of graft" by the late John T. King, then National Republican committee man from Connecticut.

The property was the proceeds of 49 per cent of the stock of the American Metal Co., owned by two German companies, controlled by the Merton family of metal magnates.

Richard Merton came to this country after the war to seek return of the property through Miller's office and retained King to put his claim through the Government offices. He paid King a fee of $441,000 and the Government charged that part of this money found its way to Daugherty.

Miller through the agency of the late Jesse W. Smith, Daugherty's political handy man. The Merton claim was passed in 1921.

Bribery Prosecution Barred.

By the time the Government officials were indicted the statute of limitations prevented prosecution for bribery. So they were charged with conspiracy, the period of limitation for conspiracy being six years. They were brought to trial for conspiring to defraud the Government of their full and impartial services in permitting passage of the Merton claim.

The first trial began in September, 1926, and lasted for more than a month, ending in disagreement of the jury after 65 hours.

The First Trial.

The main witnesses were Merton, who came from Germany of his own accord after the original indictment, which included his name among the defendants had been superseded by one which did not mention him, Mal S. Daugherty, brother of the former Attorney-General, and Guy D. Goff, Senator from West Virginia.

Merton was on the stand for six days, and told in detail of his relations with King and of the passage of his claim. He admitted that when he came to present the claim he thought it might be weak, but denied that he knew of any irregularity in the way the claims were put through.

Mal Daugherty, who is president of the Midland National Bank of Washington Court house, O., told how his brother had destroyed bank records which the Government alleged would have proved him to have received large sums of the money paid King by Merton.

Senator Goff, who was an Assistant Attorney-General in 1921 and had charge of alien property matters in Daugherty's office, told of approving the Merton claim on his own responsibility without instructions from either Daugherty or Miller.

The second trial began Feb. 7. In neither trial did either Daugherty or Miller take the stand in its own behalf.

THREE BANKRUPTS AND ACCOUNTANT INDICTED BY U. S.

Concealment of Assets and Use of False Financial Statements Charged in Federal True Bills.

Indictments returned by the Federal grand jury yesterday included four charging concealment of assets and the use of false financial statements sent through the mails to obtain credit, disclosed through the investigation of three bankruptcies cases.

Herman V. Gibstein, treasurer of the defunct American Millinery Co., was charged with concealing assets because he failed to turn over $1500, which he realized from the sale of 166 dozen hats, to John C. Dyott, receiver for the company.

Gibstein was cited for contempt in Federal Court for his failure to pay the money to Dyott, but the case was dismissed when he explained the $1500 had been stolen from a bedspring at his home, 6683 Kingsbury place, where he had hidden it. He protested that he had the money, intending to turn it over to creditors, and pleaded that he had no other funds to make good the loss. Gibstein was arrested at Seattle, Wash., last month and gave bond to answer charges here.

John H. Boswell, a public accountant, who has appeared in several bankruptcies cases before Referee Coles, and Dominick Cimilini, vice president of the bankrupt Vogue Apparel Co. were charged with sending false financial statements through the mails to obtain credit. Several Eastern wholesale concerns are alleged to have been defrauded as a result of the statements. Cimilini was arrested for questioning following a fire at the Vogue Co. in September, 1924, and later released on $50,000 bond.

August Pensoneau, a fruit dealer, who explained the failure of his business by declaring he lost $6900 betting on horse races at the Fairmount track, was charged with concealing assets. At a hearing before Referee Coles, Pensoneau told of making $8000 profit from a $750 investment in the fruit business and then losing the greater portion of it on the horses.

The indictments are the result of a campaign by the National Association of Retail Credit Men to suppress fraudulent business practices. Among the four suppressed indictments returned by the Federal grand jury yesterday it is understood one involves a recent business failure. Other cases resulting from the campaign include a charge of devising a scheme to defraud made in an indictment against Louis Bloom, head of the defunct National Embroidery Co. John H. Boswell, indicted yesterday with Cimilini, was a witness in this case.

$19,243 COLLECTED IN FINES

Madison County Cleanup Reduced.

Final, State's Attorney Says.

Fines totaling $19,243 were collected in Madison County in 1926, State's Attorney Brown reported to Circuit Court yesterday. The total for 1925 was $33,000.

Brown explained the decrease by stating that many large fines were assessed in liquor cases in 1925 and that the number of these prosecutions was reduced in 1926, following the Madison County cleanup the preceding year.

$1,100,000 Gift to Columbia U.

A Gamble; Duke Won, Insurance Firm Lost, School Breaks Even

Duc de Loubat Traded Property for $60,000 Annuity, Then Lived 29 Years, While Endowment Decreased in Value.

Property values declined. The trustees surveyed the situation. When the Duke made his donation he was 69 years old. By life insurance expectancy tables he might live to be 80 or 81. He might live to be 95. The Duke seemed to be in the best of health.

"We decided to get out of the life insurance business," Gen. William Barclay Parsons, now chairman of the board of trustees, recalled yesterday. "So we bought the Duke a $60,000 annuity for life."

University paid $100,000. The university paid a lump sum to a life insurance company, less than $700,000. The Duke, assured of his annuity, surrendered his mortgage. A life insurance company began to count the years of the Duke's life. He did what was stated in the contract—lived to 96. He drew his $60,000 annuity for 29 years, a grand total of $1,740,000, probably twice what he have received from the property if he had retained it.

Columbia, having transferred the mortgage to its state, continued and continues to gamble on real estate values. The property now has an estimated value of $700,000. If the university were to sell now, it would just about square the deal.

If Columbia breaks even on this deal, however, it is still ahead in its relationship with the Duke. In 1892 he gave it a separate endowment of $10,000 for prizes for books of various sorts on North America, to be awarded every five years. In 1903 he added $100,000 to endow a chair of American archaeology. And around several universities possess endowments made by the Duke out of his $60,000 annuity guaranteed by his bargain with Columbia.

MANN ACT CHARGES DROPPED

Architect Lloyd and Olga Milanoff Not to Be Prosecuted.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 4.—Mann act charges against Frank Lloyd Wright, architect, and his wife, Olga Milanoff, were dropped today by the Federal Government on the eve of their presentation to the grand jury.

Lafayette French Jr., Federal District Attorney, in announcing his decision to drop the case, said evidence was inadequate to warrant conviction. "The Government," evidence, he said, pointed to a technical rather than a criminal violation. Mann act charges against Wright and his companion identified by his partly melted badge as Harry J. Farrell, was found near the foot of the stairway leading to the roof.

thinking that by their talk of money for veterans and for new buildings they could frighten us into surrender.

"We are trying out an issue that will not end with the adjournment of the Congress. The issue is whether two-thirds of this body have a right to bring about a vote on a great public question. I object to being blackballed. I object to this effort to have bills of momentous consequence passed by unanimous consent."

Stewart (Rep.), Iowa, serving his last few minutes in the Senate, pointed out the Commissioner of Pensions would have to suspend payments to a group of Civil War widows if the Warren resolution should be defeated. Harrison retorted that the managers of the filibuster had had ample opportunity to get the resolution adopted.

At this point, the two floor leaders, Curtis and Robinson, marched gravely down the aisle and announced that they had seen the President, who had come to the Capitol, and that he had no further communication to make to the Congress.

Came another comic interlude, when the tall and solemn Shortridge of California, hard-boiled Republican, arose and declaimed, "Let us forget politics." Senators joined with the crowded galleries in a roar of laughter.

At 11:40 o'clock Harrison began a final, fervid attack on the Pennsylvania Reed.

"Instead of letting us take up the alien property bill," said Harrison, "he has wasted the time of the Senate in a filibuster. Let him go back and resolve the cheers of the corruptionists of Pennsylvania. He has killed the public buildings bill. I don't believe that with all his influence with Andy Mellon, he will be able to explain the defeat of that bill to Andy."

Reads Gov. Pinchot's Letter.

He resumed with great gusto the reading of the Pinchot letter about Vire.

Philips bobbed up again and Harrison turned on him with scorn.

"The letter," said Harrison, "is from the former Governor of Pennsylvania, a man who ran cleaner politics in Pennsylvania than the Senator does in Colorado."

He told of the sums of money spent in the Pennsylvania primary, $800,000 for Vire and over a million for "a Senator who sits in this chamber," he paused and looked at his watch—"for seven minutes longer."

Shortridge cut in again, he said that the Senator from Mississippi was manifestly out of order because he had imputed unworthy motives to the Senator from Pennsylvania.

Again the effort of the Californian met with laughter. He and Harrison exchanged amenities amid a din on the floor and in the galleries. The Vice President pounded for order.

Harrison then read from a newspaper file a speech made by the Pennsylvania Reed, when he was opposing Vire for the Republican nomination—a speech in which Reed said that Vire was running solely as a wet and knew nothing of finance, shipping, immigration or the other great problems before the nation.

"Anything in there about it?" drawled Caraway.

Again Harrison charged that Reed was defending Vire so that he (Reed) might hold on to his seat in the Senate. He paid his respects to Wadsworth of New York, an assistant to Reed in the filibuster, ending with the remark that "The Senator from New York is with us but one minute more."

Wadsworth smiled and gently clapped his hands.

Then the Vice President arose and sprang a surprise. He had a paper in his hand. Reading rapidly in order to finish on time, he said that the position in which the Senate found itself in the closing hours was due to its "defective body" in the world, he declared, could minority thwart a majority. He called attention to his speech on this subject when he took office of Vice President.

Apparently nobody had expected the lecture from the Vice President. There was a murmur of surprise, then a good-natured laugh. Dawes is a more popular man with the Senate than when he was sworn in.

"Mr. President," shouted Pat Harrison.

But the Vice President, looking at the clock, announced that the hour of 12 had arrived and the Senate would stand adjourned sine die. He banged his gavel on the table and the session was over.

House Cheers When Senate Votes Aid to Ferry Boat Man.

Decorum was upset for a time in the House when the secretary of the Senate, standing at the rear of the House chamber announced in a deep, solemn voice and without a smile: "The Senate has passed a bill providing for printing additional copies of the Biographical Congressional Directory."

"Hurrah, hurrah!" shouted the House.

Then amid more applause, the secretary continued: "The Senate has passed a bill for relief of the owner of the ferry boat, New York."

When noon arrived, the House was having such a good time that it moved the clock back a few minutes to listen to a speech by Speaker Longworth, congratulating his colleagues on their session's record.

Representative Garrett of Tennessee, the Democratic leader, had offered a resolution complimenting Longworth for "the able and distinguished manner" in which he had presided over the House, and it was adopted unanimously.

Cries of "Longworth, Longworth," rose from both sides of the chamber. A bang of the gavel closed the work of the House.

The Navy band fled immediately into the wall of the chamber and played the "Star-Spangled Banner," with House members and spectators rising.

RESTAURANT OWNERS FALL OUT

Woman Asks for Receiver for Hollywood Catering Co.

A receivership suit against the Hollywood Catering Co., which operates a restaurant in the Missouri Theater Building, was filed today by Mrs. Jennie Ridolfi, a stockholder, who alleges mismanagement by Alfred Pagella, president of the company.

Mrs. Ridolfi's petition asserts that Pagella, through the votes of himself, his brother, Humbert, and his cousin, Genaro Pagella, have dominated the company, giving no voice in the business to herself and her husband, Hugo, the only other stockholders.

SENATE LIKELY TO REJECT ENTIRE PRISON BOARD

Action to Be Based on Proof Commissioners Did Not Function as Body Within Meaning of Law.

ousting of Warden ALSO FORECAST

Committee to Report All Other Members Were Pliant Tools in Hands of Director Enloe.

By CURTIS A. BETTS. A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 4.—The State Senate investigation of Gov. Baker's State Penal Board, which has been in progress two weeks, virtually is certain to result within a week in a rejection of the confirmation of three members of the board and probably all five. The findings will be based, it is said, upon proof that the commissioners did not function as a board within the meaning of the law, that the members generally relinquished all their authority to Dr. Cortez F. Enloe, the director, and were pliant tools in his hands.

The proof of outright graft has been extremely limited and confined to petty instances involving table supplies. The record, however, teems with evidence of business irregularities favoring the purchase of supplies, lack of business judgment which in two years caused the wiping out of a $400,000 surplus and an additional deficit of $160,000 in operating expenses.

While the investigation is not complete it virtually is closed insofar as the decision as to the report to be made to the Senate is concerned.

Probable Action in Matter.

There seems to be no question that the recommendation will call for the rejection by the Senate of the appointments of Dr. Enloe, Republican, director of penal institutions, and to all purposes a whole board in himself, and W. H. McGregor, commissioner of farms and T. Speed Mosby, a sort of commissioner at large, Democrats. It is probable the committee also will reject A. H. Steinbeck, commissioner of parole and pardons, and Leslie Rudolph, warden, Republicans. It is to be expected that when the committee is ready to submit its findings that a caucus of Democratic Senators will be called for the purpose of making certain that the report will be followed, this notwithstanding that there are several Republican Senators who are prepared to support a plan to oust any or all members of the board.

It will be recalled that there was a powerful force within the Democratic majority opposing the investigation, and that prior to the adoption of the investigation resolution there were reports of strong influences being brought to bear on some Democrats to block it. Representative Whitely, charged that liquor was used in the effort to prevent the inquiry.

One in More Favorable Light.

According to the evidence before the committee Steinbeck was the only commissioner who ever attempted in the slightest degree to exercise the duty of participating in the general management of the prison. He poked around the institution and obtained information of irregularities. He testified he thought it is his duty to inform Gov. Baker of conditions and visited the Governor for that purpose. He was informed by the Governor that he "would receive his reports about the prison from Dr. Enloe." The exact condition of the management may be summed up in one bit of Steinbeck's testimony. He told that immediately after the board members were appointed in May, 1925, Gov. Baker visited the prison. All the guards were summoned to a meeting and the Governor, after introducing the members of the board, placed his hand on Dr. Enloe's shoulder and said: "And this is my little boss of the prison."

This statement, it appeared, was accepted by the board members with the possible exception of Steinbeck as notification to them that they were mere figureheads and were not expected to assume any part in the management of the institution.

Finances Directed by Enloe.

The record of the financial condition of the prison as disclosed in the testimony was that it was managed solely by Dr. Enloe, much of whose time was engaged in private business and professional affairs. The doctor was the active managing head of a $1,000,000 mining corporation receiving a salary of $700 a month, and also devoted four hours a day to the practice of medicine in Jefferson City.

Dr. Enloe proved himself con-

versant to the minutest detail with the affairs of the mining company, but when questioned regarding penitentiary affairs, he generally evaded the question, pressed ignorance or placed the responsibility on a subordinate.

He admitted that he had received a report from State Senator Brunk, purchasing agent of the prison in 1925, containing charges of irregularities in the purchase of supplies, but said he did not believe the charges and did not consider them of enough importance to institute an investigation.

The testimony showed that Enloe, Gov. Baker and D. M. Oberman, who did a business aggregating between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000 a year with the prison, were members of the Board of Directors of the mining company, of which Enloe was the directing head and Oberman the largest stockholder.

Testimony as to Prices.

There were leads in the testimony to the effect that Enloe and McGregor sought to give Oberman an "inside price" on prison-made goods, but so far there has been no direct testimony to bear out the allegation, though the evidence showed that on one occasion Enloe, McGregor and John I. Burnett, former Commissioner of Industries at the prison, met with Oberman at the latter's home and discussed prices on a large quantity of shirts Oberman wished to buy. There was a difference of 50 cents a dozen between the price Oberman wanted to pay and the price Burnett was willing to take. Oberman testified they finally agreed upon a price within 10 cents a dozen of Burnett's figure. Oberman directly denied that Enloe and McGregor joined with him urging Burnett to surrender.

There was direct testimony that last October Enloe, finding the treasury of the prison empty, laid the foundation for the organization of a private financing of the State's affairs. Oberman agreed the prison approximately $250,000, which was not due, the average due date being 30 days later. Enloe proposed that Oberman pay his full account before due to provide money for the prison to pay its debts.

Through Howard Cook, a Jefferson City banker, Oberman borrowed the money, paying $3500 interest for it and receiving a discount of one-half of 1 per cent on his account. This operation was revealed in December the amount then being $200,000 and Oberman again paying $3500 interest.

Deal Puzled Committee.

Members of the committee said they were unable to understand the philanthropy of Oberman in paying out $7000 to carry the financial burden of the prison.

He said, however, he had not been promised by Enloe that the interest would be repaid him.

Only about 25 per cent of the meat bought for the prison from Armour & Co. was bought under the prison contract, witnesses admitted, the remainder being purchased on order and virtually without competitive bidding.

McGregor, readily admitted on the stand that he took no active part in the prison management outside his specific farm duties. Mosby frankly said that he knew nothing about the financial affairs, that although he signed the financial report he knew nothing about its accuracy and that he would sign anything Dr. Enloe told him to sign.

Clean Sweep Forecast.

Rudolph was familiar with the discipline of the prison, but knew nothing about anything else. Steinbeck tried to take part in the general management that is, attempted, to assume the responsibilities imposed on him by the law as a member of the board, but was shut aside.

While there might be some disposition by the Senate to hold Steinbeck in his place because of the effort he made, the general opinion here is that the Senate will make a clean sweep of the entire board, that there may be a complete reorganization of the prison management.

This will impose upon the Governor the duty of naming new board members. If the Senate acts quickly, the Governor could not well avoid picking them before the adjournment of the Senate, in which case the Senate would pass upon the confirmations. If the Governor waited until after the adjournment of the Legislature he would have a free hand without submitting the names to the Senate. There is a possibility that the Senate will remain in session until the Governor makes the appointments.

Oberman Denies Making Big Profit on Prison Goods.

Oberman, a Democrat, but an honorary colonel on the staff of Gov. Baker, yesterday afternoon joined to the investigating committee that in his capacity as chief purchaser of prison-made textile products in the last two years he had made a disproportionate profit.

Oberman told the committee that the prison handled his work on "cut, make and trim" basis, in other words, he furnished the textiles, which were cut, sewed and fitted with buttons and buttonholes in the penitentiary factory. In 1925, he said, he paid about $600,000 for such work and in 1926 about $1,400,000. He declared that he made a profit of only about 4 per cent on the transactions.

The manufacturer was closely questioned about the deal, already explained by previous witnesses, by which Oberman raised $450,000 last October and December, and paid his bills to the penitentiary in advance so that the prison might

How INTERNAL BATHING

Beautifies Complexions

In vain many women seek the clear complexion and firm contour.

Pimples, acne, blackheads or a yellowish, anemic skin reflect their unsightly selves in the mirror.

Here is a great truth well known to all stage and movie beauties, and unfailingly followed by them. Blood builds beauty. The clearer the blood stream the clearer the complexion.

In most instances the basic cause of blood taint is retarded digestive elimination. In other words, intestinal clogging.

You can understand why—easily. When digestive waste remains too long in your large intestine germs and poisons breed. Not by the few hundreds—but by the millions! The tiny blood vessels in the intestinal walls absorb them—carry them into the blood stream. And the blood can expel them in only three ways—through the skin, kidneys and lungs. The job is too big for the lungs—so the skin helps, through pimples. And when the blood stream gets overloaded, it weakens and cannot force all impurities through the skin—then come blackheads, enlarged pores and a flabby, loose skin.

Begin Beauty Here

Temporary relief from intestinal clogging can be gained in many ways—but PERMANENT FREEDOM can be gained by Internal Bathing with the

That of the fifth was examined before it was interred.

The boric acid solution was administered to 10 babies.

meet outstanding obligations, Jie declared he took this extraordinary step because Dr. Enloe had told him the penitentiary had to have money to pay its creditors.

Denies Charge as to Prices.

Oberman denied that in a conference in 1925 with John Burnett, formerly Industrial Commissioner on the board, he had tried unduly to beat down prices. He declared that he regarded Burnett's proposed price of $2.30 a dozen as too much for "cut, make and trim" on a 10,000-dozen order for flannel shirts and refused to pay it, but declared that neither Dr. Enloe nor McGregor had joined him in trying to make Burnett reduce the price.

Calvin A. Magee, a salesman, and H. S. Cowan, credit manager of Armour & Co., yesterday told of the difficulties experienced in collecting accounts from the penitentiary. At one time last fall the prison owed Armour $113,000, some of which dated back to February. The packing company was later paid from the money advanced by Oberman.

Observe What Happens

The intestine now clean, the flow of germs into the blood stream stopped—a beauty miracle takes shape. The blood stream, freed for the moment of the impouing of intestinal germs, can quickly purify itself. Improvements in the skin will come quickly. It will show first in drying eruptions, firming flesh and heightened color. You will notice, too, that your eyes have more brightness and lustre. That you are gay and more elastic. That you have more vitality and appetite. And with faithful usage of the Cascade treatment... increasing loveliness!

HOUSE MAY ACT ON RAPID TRANSIT TONIGHT

St. Louis Bill Near Engraving but Takes Risk of Last-Minute Jam.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 4.— Supporters of the enabling measure authorizing St. Louis to establish a rapid transit system and to create a rapid transit commission to have charge of the development were unable to get the bill before the House yesterday for engravement, but hope to bring it up for consideration tonight. The bill now is second in order on the House calendar for engraving.

The usual legislative jam near the close of the session is impending and more than 150 bills already engrossed are on the House calendar for third reading and passage. The rapid transit enabling act when engrossed, will have to take its turn upon the calendar unless its supporters can persuade the House to advance it on the calendar.

No duplicate bill was introduced in the Senate and the measure will not come for consideration in the upper house until the House bill is passed and sent over to the Senate.
City officers of St. Louis and members of the Board of Aldermen who have been here this week urging early action on the bill received assurances from Senators there was likely to be little opposition to the passage of the bill in the Senate if the House sent it over in time.

The regular 70-day period for the session expires March 16, but the Legislature will remain in session probably a week or two beyond that date in order to dispose of the major appropriation bills.

THREE CONFESSED ROBBERS GIVEN TERMS IN PRISON

Joseph Gotch, 19, and Roy Riley, 18, Each Get 10 Years; William Lauck, Two Years.

Three men were sentenced to the penitentiary by Circuit Judge Ossing today upon pleas of robbery and attempted robbery.

Joseph Gotch, 19 years old, of 1626 North Twelfth street, and his companion, Roy Riley, 18, of 3503 Barrett street, were sentenced for 10 years each on two charges of robbery. On Jan. 22 they robbed Alexander Roufa, owner of a clothing store at 807 Morgan street, of $76. Albert Gelber, proprietor of a store at 623 Morgan street, was robbed of $30 by the pair on Feb. 12.

William Lauck, 22, of 3335 Kline street, was sentenced for two years for attempting to rob the drug store of Colburn H. Wilson Jr., at 4101 West Florissant avenue, Oct. 23. Both he and his companion, John Wade, 25, of 1137 St. Louis avenue, were wounded by shots fired by Wilson. They fled without obtaining any money and were later arrested at the St.
Louis Baptist Hospital. Wade will be tried later.

SHORTAGES IN CLOSED BANKS

Cashier Arrested, Bookkeeper Missing in Chain Bank Failure.

PITTSBURG, Kan., March 4.—
Inquiry into the closing of seven chain banks in Southeastern Kansas last week brought to light today shortages in two of the banks.
The Farmers' State at Englevalle, and the Miners' State at Mulberry.
E. J. Webb, cashier of the bank at Englevalle, was arrested last Saturday night charged with a shortage of $3500. A. G. Rinehart, bookkeeper of the bank at Mulberry, has been missing since the night before his bank closed. A shortage of more than $5000 has been discovered in his accounts.
The seven banks were operated by J. W. Montee, former State Senator, and John G. Miller, land owner and coal operator.

TWO FIRES IN ONE BLOCK

Blazes in Church and Synagogue

Attributed to Incendiarism.
Two fires in the 1200 block of North Euclid avenue last evening, one in a church, the other in a synagogue, are believed by police to have been of incendiary origin.
Both blazes were extinguished with small damage.

The first fire was discovered in rubbish under a stairway of the building occupied by Congregation
Cheesed Shel Emeth, 1260 North Euclid, at 9:45 p. m., and caused damage estimated at $50. Thirty minutes later fire broke out in an office of the Euclid Nazarene Church, 1231 North Euclid. Several prayer books, which had been removed from a desk, were aflame.
The blaze was extinguished with damage of $225.

18,000 IN DIAMOND FIELD RUSH

By the Associated Press.

POTCHEFSTROOM, Transvaal,
March 4.—Eighteen thousand runners engaged in a diamond rush to the Grasfontein farm today. The race was on promptly at noon with the falling of the flag signifying that the reportedly rich area was again proclaimed public diggings after last week's false start. There was tremendous public interest in the event.

Everything passed off without a hitch. One runner was offered $5000 by a syndicate, but refused to sell his chance.

ALBANIAN DICTATOR LAVISH IN EXPENSES

Spends More Than Five Per Cent of the Nation's Annual Income.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch from Tirana, Albania, March 4.

By JOHN GUNTHER.

TIRANA, Albania, Jan. 25.—Dictators cost money. Ahmet, "the Big Bird," is no exception. In fact, for the people of Albania, he's a pretty expensive luxury. But the people don't care.

No one has ever succeeded in taxing an Albanian. The Gulls tried. Then the Romans. Then the Goths, the Slavs, the Normans, the Venetians, and finally the Turks. They all failed. The Albanian Government itself hardly dares try, even now.

Instead, the Government adopts an alternative scheme. It is very simple. It is to make the foreigner pay, or to make the Albanian pay if he buys foreign goods. Albania lives by its customs. The customs revenue exceeds far and away any other item in the national income.

Last year the budget was almost balanced—on paper. The revenue came to $4,500,000, the expenditures to $4,650,000. But in reality there was a deficit of about $1,000,000. Mostly it consisted of unpaid salaries. Not much, perhaps. But it is a considerable sum. In that it represents about a quarter of the whole national income. That is why April of this year will be a day of reckoning for Ahmet, of reckoning in gold. For then he must pay somehow—with a virtually bankrupt Government—something over $1,000,000 to Italy—interest on money his Government has never received.

But Ahmet, personally, does himself rather well. His civil list is staggering. He gets about three times as much as the President of the United States. His share amounts to more than 5 per cent of the total income of the Government. The figures are so illuminating they should be quoted in full, as a demonstration of the economics of Mediterranean dictatorship. The figures are official, copied (and, of course, translated) verbatim from the budget report.

Funds placed at his disposal by the Government for 1926 are divided into two categories, personal and military. Here are the details:

President's salary	$48,000
Wages of personnel	5,744
House	17,000
Rent	6,000
Parliament	20,000
Automobile	4,000
Wages and indemnities to guards	62,800
Stationery	200
Printing	200
President's orchestra	24,000
Traveling expenses	20,000
Rent	20,000
Travel	12,400
Private fund	220
Other expenses	4,772
Total	$227,604

It will be noted that Ahmet's traveling expenses amount to some $20,000 a year. And yet it has been noted in this series that he almost never travels. Ahmet is rather a recluse. In fact, it might be stated he is almost a prisoner in his own palace. He leaves that palace not more than two or three times a month.

Plenty of Protection.

And when he does travel—when, for instance, he goes in summer from Tirana to Durazzo—it costs money. An armed caravan is necessary—and it consists of 15 automobiles packed with soldiers for the journey of 25 miles. And there is a squadron of gendarmes at every telegraph post.

An attempt was made to assassinate him, even as his uncle, Essad Pasha, was assassinated in Paris early in 1924. He was only a deputy then, on his way to the Chamber. He was seriously wounded. And Ahmet takes no chances. Not only has he innumerable political enemies, but there stand against him the already mentioned 600 blood feuds.

The facts are not to be considered derogatory personally to Ahmet. Compared to some of his ordinaries—for instance, the estimable Libubova—he is for purity like virgin snow. Politics in Tirana is unimaginably corrupt. Nothing goes unless there is "backsheesh" attached. Almost anyone can be bought . . . quite cheaply.

Ahmet is trying to do his best for his country. Perhaps he has been misjudged. It is perhaps true that the sums mentioned in this article are supplemented many times by other sums. But that is merely the Albania of it. Ahmet knows his tenure may be brief. And why not make the best of things . . . while he can?

WOMAN, 78, FOUND DEAD ON PAVEMENT UNDER WINDOW

Miss Bridget Kelly Is Thought to Have Jumped From Second-Floor Room.

A police investigation was made yesterday of the death of Miss Bridget Kelly, 78 years old, who was killed Wednesday night when she jumped or fell from a second-story window of the home of Little Sisters of the Poor, Grand boulevard and Sherbrook street. Her body was found on the pavement 35 feet beneath the window at 9:30 p. m.

Miss Kelly was placed in the institution as a trial inmate last Tuesday by her nephew, Father Frank O'Hern of the St. Louis University faculty. She was suffering from a mental disorder and police were informed she frequently raved to points where she was left at night. A light was burning near the window from which she leaped or fell.

WHISKY STILL IN OPERATION SEIZED, 4 PERSONS ARRESTED

Federal and Police Officers Found 4000 Gallons of Mash, Alcohol and 40 Empty Cans.

A whisky still of 150-gallon daily capacity was found in operation by Federal prohibition agents and city detectives at 1414 South Thirteenth street at 11 o'clock last night. A coke fire was burning under the apparatus, the product of which was being caught in a five-gallon can. On the same floor the raiders found a vat containing about 4000 gallons of whisky mash, 18 sacks of coke, 10 gallons of alcohol and 40 empty cans. The still was dismantled and the Fire Department was directed to pump the mash into a sewer today.

Two men, who said they were Joseph Torino, 32 years old, of the South Thirteenth street address, and Frank Rose, 29, of 900 Hickory street, were found at the still. They and the occupant of the first floor, who said he was Frank Safina Jr., 28, a shoe worker, and his wife, were arrested.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys If Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking quart of water each day, also salts occasionally, says a doctor, who tells us that too rich food forms acids which paralyze the kidneys in their effort to expel it from the blood. The acids sluggish and weaken; the kidneys suffer with a dull misery in kidney region, sharp pains in back or sick headache, dizzy, year stomach sour, tongue is coated when the weather is bad, have rheumatic twinges.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys, flush off the body's waste, get rid of the acids, take a course of Jad Salts from any drug store; take a tablespoonful of glass of water before breakfast a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous remedy is made from the acid of grapefruit juice, combined with and has been used for years to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acid system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder pain.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; it injures and makes a delightful, pleasant lithia-water drink.

"PAIN WAS LIKE KNIFE STAB"

Once helpless from lame now does all her own work

Made practically helpless by a back, an active young housewife everything she could think of, last found quick and complete relief from a simple, old-fashioned remedy.

"The pain in my back was like knife stab," she writes, "and me hoping Sloan's Liniment given to me to ease the pain, and now able to do all my own work."

Sloan's gets results because it doesn't just deaden the pain, it gets up the body's own forces, rid of the cause.

Just put it on lightly with rubbing, and you feel a comforting glow, as the healing is sent coursing through the tissues—stiff, contracted muscles, pain stops, and soon conditions are restored.

RIVER DES PERES EXPENDITURES NOW $1,429,680

Work Under Way in Section B-2 and C, to Cost $1,000,000, Being Pushed
Day and Night.

OTHER CONTRACTS TO BE LET SHORTLY

One Will Be for Two Miles of Parallel Concrete Tubes South From Union
Bl. to Cost $4,000,000.

With about 7000 feet of the River des Peres control improvement south of Forest Park completed, a section of equal length under way and much preliminary work done farther downstream, the city plans to start the conversion of this nuisance river into a closed sewer in Forest Park about next October. At present, a big contract is being carried out parallel to Manchester avenue in this $11,- 000,000 bond issue project.

Two years ago the project was just getting started, having suffered an unavoidable delay. About five years more will be required in the natural course of events to finish it, since the river, now an open sewer, flows through the city for about 12 miles, from a point in the West End, between Delmar boulevard and Olive street, to its mouth at the Mississippi River and the southern city limits. Expenditures, up to the last compilation a month ago, totaled $1,429,680.

Magnitude of the Project.

Magnitude of the project can best be visualized by describing the status of the sections, from the entrance into St. Louis to the mouth, told by W. W. Horner, city sewer engineer, as follows:

One mile, from the city limits to the northern edge of Forest Park, cannot be started until about 1931, as the work downstream must be done first to receive the discharge;
this is on the original schedule.

The concrete underground tube, following the present gorge, will be 23 feet wide and 25 feet high. A short section of it, crossing Delmar boulevard, has been in place for some time, in anticipation of street viaduct construction there, having been paid for by 1920 bond issue funds.

One mile, of similar single concrete tube through Forest Park to Union boulevard, where another sewer enters, is to be contracted for probably soon after next October. This will parallel Lindell drive, instead of following the present meandering course of the river through the park.

One Section to Cost $4,000,000.
Two miles, from Union boulevard, south through the park, across Manchester avenue, and to the Frisco Railway. Expected to be contracted for in October, at a possible cost of about $4,000,000, although plans will not be completed all this summer. This section, which will require greater capacity, will require two parallel concrete tubes of the size of the single tube upstream. This will necessitate digging a trench more than 80 feet deep and perhaps 70 feet wide, in which the concrete will be poured in forms; afterwards the sewer will be covered with earth to replace the park lawns.

Sections B-2 and C, a combined contract for an open channel held by the W. E. Callahan Construction Co., under force account, extend 10,000 feet from the Frisco Railway to a point east of Southwest avenue, this being the scene of present activity visible from Manchester avenue. The job started from the Southwest avenue end last July and although there has been bad weather, much of the subsequent time, by working 24 hours daily, whenever possible, the contractor has finished the first 3300 feet and 500 feet scattered beyond. The city estimated the cost of this contract at $1,100,000.

Storm and Foul Water Channels.

Here the project calls for a concrete foul water sewer eight feet wide and five feet high, and a broad concrete channel above it, with sloping concrete walls, for storm and flood water. Alongside the Scullin Steel Co. plant, close to Manchester avenue, there is a stretch of 100 feet where the channel walls are perpendicular, since the route is through firm rock. A good deal more of sections B-2 and C will have similar variation of straight walls, where rock is present.
The excavators and concrete pourers are working now on a 2000-foot stretch in the Scullin Steel Co. yard and to the east in the yards of the Missouri Fire
Brick Co. and Laclede-Christy Fire
Clay Co. The completed 3300-foot section extends nearly all the way through the Scullin property.

To make way for the river work,
the Frisco has abandoned its old bridge east of Knox avenue and is using a temporary wooden trestle.
The city will thicken the river walls to serve as abutments for a new Frisco bridge and the railroad will finish its own trestle. A coping has been let for new bridges to carry Sulphur, Sublette and Mack-lud avenues across the stream, to be erected soon, one at a time, after the excavation crosses those streets. The present channel meanders, but the new one will stay close to the Frisco tracks at Sublette avenue the old and new will be 1000 feet apart.

Some Completed Work.

Sections A and B-1, more open channel, cover a mile in the Gratiot-Lindenwood section, running southwest from B-2. They have been finished for some time, materially relieving flood conditions. They cost approximately $581,000. In addition, a new bridge was built for Southwest avenue, costing $31,747.

Section J, bordering the southwestern city limits for three and a half miles, from Lindenwood to Gravois avenue, through undeveloped territory, has been straightened and deepened at a cost of $150,000 and a bridge for Gravois avenue was built for $114,222.

Eventually a foul water sewer and concrete storm water channel will be constructed through this section and the one downstream, to the mouth.

Rights of entry to virtually all of the land traversed by the improvement between Manchester and Gravois avenues have been obtained by the city, although the condemnation suit is pending and will be for some time, and nearly 40 per cent of the rights of entry below Gravois avenue are in hand. The city engineers expect to have the whole River des Peres conversion completed before the lawyers and courts finish the condemnation.
$500,000 for Damages.
It is estimated that $500,000 will cover the damages for land required, and owners giving rights of entry have been promised 6 per cent interest from the time of entrance to the time of award on the amount of the damage award.

For six miles, from Lindenwood to the Mississippi, the underlying foul water sewer is in place, having been finished in 1910 out of a $1,000,000 bond issue voted several years previously. This leaves the present river channel near Albarna avenue and runs to the Mississippi at the mouth of Catalan street. The storm water channel below Gravois avenue remains to be built and the channel of section J must be widened and lined with concrete.

POLICE DECIDE AGAINST PERFUME SLOT MACHINES

Device Held to Be Gambling Affair
by Commissioners Freund and Kortjohn.

Perfume vending machines, which the American Distributing Co. of Kansas City has proposed to manufacture and maintain in public places in St. Louis, are held by the Police Board to be illegal gambling machines, likely to have evil effects on children and others using them. The opinion, written by two lawyer members of the board, Commissioners Kortjohn and Freund, and sent to Oliver T.
Remmers, attorney for the company and chairman of the Republican City Committee, made it plain the police would not permit operation of the devices.

Remmers had exhibited the first model of the machine to police and other authorities, asking their opinions. The Chief of Police told him their use would not be permitted. Remmers, who thinks the device is legal, said it was desired to introduce it openly and to that end he anticipated a suit in court to establish whether it was legal.
The machine sells a bottle of perfume for 25 cents placed in a slot and also gives with each sale from one to 20 tokens, the number being indicated before the user pays, for each of which, when replaced in the machine, the user may obtain a spray of perfume.

PNEUMONIA, AND NOT BURNS KILLED BOY

Autopsy Discloses That 3-Year-Old Hugh Graham Died of Bronchial Disease.

Hugh Graham, 3-year-old son of John Graham, 1115 Madison street, who died at City Hospital Feb. 21, was not burned but died from bronchial pneumonia, a Coroner's jury found today after an autopsy had failed to disclose any burns on the child's body.

Blue marks noticed by Hugh's family when the body was sent home, and which caused his parents to surmise that he had been burned by careless handling of a steam vaporizing machine used in treatment of the case at City Hospital, were caused by ruptured blood vessels after death, the autopsy report explained.

Physicians and nurses at City Hospital had denied at the Coroner's hearings that it would have been possible for the child to have been burned to death. Upon the insistence of an attorney representing the Graham family the case will be presented to the grand jury. Coroner Vitt said, however, that no evidence contrary to the verdict had been found and that the grand jury consideration would be a perfunctory survey of the testimony, in order to satisfy the family.

ROTARY CLUB WAS IDEA OF LONELY MAN IN CITY

Paul Harris, Founder of Movement, Says Original Purpose Was Purely Social.

Paul Harris, founder of the first Rotary Club, heard himself likened to the Apostle Paul, John Paul Jones and Paul Revere by enthusiastic luncheon speakers in Hotel Statler ballroom, yesterday, but personally he is inclined to deprecate such comparisons.

A tall, very erect man, in the late forties, with a confident voice, his manner under the fire of compliments is apologetic. Several hundred members of the St. Louis Rotary Club had gathered to do him honor on the occasion of his first appearance before St. Louis Rotarians. Although bearing the title of "founder and president emeritus of Rotary International," he seldom leaves home in Chicago and annually refuses thousands of invitations to address fellow club members.

One speaker, yesterday, compared him to Sir Christopher Wren, stating that whereas St. Paul's Cathedral in London was Wren's monument, 2296 Rotary Clubs, with 120,000 members all over the world, "are a monument to Paul Harris." Whereupon Harris addressed the audience as "fellow tombstones," indicating he has a sense of humor.

In an interview with a Post-Dispatch reporter, Harris related how the idea of a Rotary Club originated in 1900, and traced some of its development. He is an attorney and presents a rather unusual figure, wearing a blue suit with box pleats of a fashion seldom seen nowadays, a red necktie and horn-rimmed pince nez glasses.

How Idea Originated. "The idea came when I was a young man and lonesome," he stated. "A friend of mine and I went for a walk one evening. We were country boys and I had few acquaintances in Chicago. But my friend stopped at a drugstore, a tobacconist's and at a newspaper during our walk, and I noticed that he was on friendly terms with these business men. I appreciated the value of such contacts and it occurred to me that a club might be formed taking in a man from each sort of business.

"At first we had a very limited circle and we met in rotation at each other's offices or homes. In the early days these were evening meetings. Later, when the idea became popular, the practice of luncheon meetings was adopted as being more convenient.

"When I was asked to select a name for the clubs—we soon had four in Chicago—I mentioned 'Rotary' among other names. I did not care for it particularly and afterwards suggested a more dignified title, but the boys wouldn't change. I got the name 'Rotary' from the fact that we visited in rotation, and because we took in a circle of business men, and because at first our members were elected for one year only. We had that rule so that if we didn't like a fellow we could get rid of him. This carried out the idea of rotation.

"At first my conception of the Rotary Club was merely social. I thought of it as a place for friendly gatherings of men in various lines of business. But when the idea began to spread and I saw that the mechanics of it promised growing popularity, I realized I would have to find something for the boys to do. I began to develop the spiritual side by adopting a code of ethics and preaching idealism in business. I wanted Rotarians to practice the golden rule the other six days in the week besides Sunday.

Business Ideals Profitable. "We saw that the Rotary Club could touch its members' idealism in business paid the most profits. It could also dignify the business man and give him a high purpose which would increase his respect for his place in life and make him realize his responsibility to society. One hundred and sixty-seven codes of ethics have been adopted by national associations of business men and the Rotary Club was responsible for 123 of these.

"Of late years we have turned to objective service, such as our work for crippled children, sponsorship of the 'back to school' movement, helping students to carry on their studies and our employment bureaus.

One of the early ideas of the Rotary Club was that members could help each other in business by mutual patronage. This was deemed too materialistic to be embodied in the club's code and is stated thusly: "The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service," and Rotarians are taught that one of the benefits of the club is making the acquaintance of men you ought to know."

Harris never refers to this feature in his speeches and interviews, preferring to discuss the spiritual aspects of the Rotary Club movement.

Education Post in Cabinet Urged. By the Associated Press. DALLAS, Tex., March 4.—A Federal Department of Education is demanded in resolutions adopted at the final session of the annual convention of the Department of Superintendence, National Education Association, George W. Wagner, maker of St. Matthew's, S. C., cast the only dissenting vote. He said that under a Secretary of Education in the President's Cabinet, "the autonomy of the American school system would be relegated to the rear."

REPORTS ON G. F. BAKER CLASH

NEW YORK, March 4.—Despite reassuring official utterances that George F. Baker, banker, is not seriously ill, it was learned authoritatively last evening that Dr. Alvin T. Barach and Dr. Henry T. Chickering, New York pneumonia specialists, had been hurriedly called to the Jekyll Island Club, near Brunswick, Ga., where the 57-year-old financier is spending his winter vacation.

The absence of positive information that Mr. Baker is the patient the specialists were called to attend, and the announcement for publication that the financier was well enough yesterday afternoon to take an automobile ride, left the case a mystery.

They are Eugene Poole and George W. Mackay, photographers, who operated the Alexandria Studio, 709 Washington avenue; Walter Frank Blocker, a Negro, proprietor of a printing shop at 7 North Twenty-third street; Sam Treverbridge, a Negro, employed in Blocker's shop; Louis A. Pascoe, proprietor of a restaurant on Jefferson avenue, Mike Vasiloff, part owner of the Melton Hotel, 1602 Market street, and Guy Gorris. All of them had been arrested and some have given bond.

Secret service agents reported that Blocker confessed the counterfeiting last January and said he had obtained the paper for the bills from Mackay, after raids on their establishments. Vasiloff was found to have a bogus $20 bill in his pocket when arrested at the Melton Hotel and in a room there three plates for the bills were discovered.

Three men were indicted for the robbery of the dry goods store and branch postoffice of Albert S. Klaven, 3409 California avenue, Feb. 6. They are Harold Stombaugh, George McMahon and Arthur von Nostrand. They are charged also with threatening Klaven, as a postal employee, with a deadly weapon, conviction under which carries a mandatory 25-year prison sentence.

The robbers obtained $665, part of which was postal receipts. McMahon and von Nostrand are under murder indictments for the killing of Rudolph S. Gutzel, a telephone coin box collector, in an attempted robbery in a South Side hardware store, Feb. 9. They confessed participation in the holdup effort and a companion said he fired the fatal shot. Stombaugh, 18 years old, had been associated with them in a Piggy-Wiggly store robbery.

Walter E. Stobart, 50 years old, of 4119 Cozens avenue, was indicted for making a false statement against the Government. He had sought to redeem $700 in torn $50 bills, which he said had been mutilated by children who took them from his mattress. It developed the money had been torn and discarded by a woman residing near Stobart, during a temporary mental lapse. The charge against Stobart carries a maximum penalty on conviction of five years' imprisonment and a $5000 fine.

REDUCTION ON RATES FOR WATER AT WEBSTER GROVES

Out of 10 Cents Per 1000 Gallons Retroactive to Feb. 1—Rebates Being Paid.

A reduction of 10 cents per 1000 gallons of water for Webster Groves consumers is now effective with a provision whereby the city agrees to maintain water meters formerly purchased and maintained by the householder. The new rates, adopted by the Webster Groves City Council Monday night, are retroactive to Feb. 1, and consumers are being paid rebates on their February bills.

Under the new schedule the rate is reduced from 60 to 50 cents a month on quantities ranging from 6000 gallons, the minimum, to 15,000 gallons. For amounts in excess of 15,000 gallons the new rate is 40 cents. Formerly the consumer paid 60 cents for amounts from 6000 up to 25,000 gallons and for amounts over 25,000 paid at the rate of 50 cents per thousand.

In the future, it was decided at Monday night's meeting, the city will install water meters and maintain them. Formerly the consumer did this at his own expense, the city maintaining a shop for repair work. Under the present plan consumers may turn their meters over to the city and be relieved of further maintenance expense.

The Webster Groves water supply is obtained from the St. Louis County Water Co.

SENATE PASSES SEVEN MISSOURI HOUSE BILLS

Four Are Appropriation Measures — Highway Bond Issue Plan Laid Over.

By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, March 4.—Seven House bills were passed yesterday by the Missouri Senate. All of the measures now go to the Governor for signature, having passed both branches of the General Assembly.

Included in the seven measures approved by the upper house were four formal appropriation bills, two of which provide payment of interest on the State's bonded indebtedness, and one providing the cost of assessing and collecting revenue. The measures were the first appropriation bills for 1927-28 biennium to be approved by the Senate.

Two Senate bills relating to long and short haul discrimination by railroads were passed. The measures were introduced by Senator Lon S. Haynes (Dem.) of Springfield. They now go to the House for action.

Court Commissioners Bill.
Senator Nick T. Cava's measure providing for the appointment of Commissioners of the Supreme Court, also was passed. The Senator explained that the commissioners were appointed every four years under special laws passed by the Legislature and that the bill was formal.

A proposal for an additional $120,000,000 bond issue for the State highway system was brought up for engrossment, but laid over after several Senators had indicated opposition to the measure. It is thought by sponsors of the plan that the bill submitting the proposal to a vote of the people will pass the upper house.

Plans for Prison Hospital.
Construction of a separate hospital outside the State penitentiary for care and treatment of tubercular convicts would be provided in a bill introduced in the Senate today by Senator Phil M. Donnelly (Dem.) of Lebanon. The measure provides an appropriation of $60,000 for establishment of the hospital.

The building would be erected under the supervision of the Prison Board, but the site would be purchased by a committee of three members—one appointed by the Senate, one by the House and the third by the Governor. The site is designated near Prison Farm No. 1, where women prisoners are housed.

House Passes 17 Bills.
Confronted with a steadily lengthening calendar of bills waiting disposition, the House turned today to third reading and passage of bills and put through 17 and defeated four in a full day of debate. Most of the bills passed were of a local nature.

Efforts to pass bills by recording for them the roll call on a previous measure was blocked by members on both the Republican and Democratic sides of the House, on the ground it was a violation of the State Constitution.

This has been done in past sessions in the House, and the practice carried to the extent of passing blocks of five to a dozen bills on one previous roll call. This practice often permitted the jamming through of measures that members did not recognize in the rush.

Several members served notice they would not give the required unanimous consent to use previous roll calls for passage of bills, but would demand separate roll calls on passage of each bill.

Effect of Crumming.
Representative Oak Hunter of Randolph County said he was tired of going home after sessions of the Legislature and learning from the printed journal, received after adjournment, that he had been recorded as voting for measures he had opposed on the floor, through use of previous roll calls.

The Rev. Alex Reid of Harrison County recalled that he was absent from the 1925 session for 10 days because of illness, and later learned from the House journal that his name had been voted for a number of bills, although he was absent through the use of previous roll calls.

The House passed a bill to re-establish the Supreme Court Commission for four years and increasing the number of commissioners from four to six, because of the increase in the number of appeal cases. The commissioners perform the same duties as Supreme Judges, but do not have a vote on the adoption of opinions.

Other Bills Passed.
Another bill passed authorizes the City of St. Louis to deposit up to $2,000,000 of its funds with a single bank, instead of not more than $1,000,000 as provided by the present law.

Other bills passed by the House today relate to the method of assessments by Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance and Tornado Insurance companies; three measures giving the Cape Girardeau Court of Common Pleas concurrent jurisdiction with the Circuit Court in cases affecting delinquent children, and increasing the salary of the Judge of the Court of Common Pleas; authorizing a Justice of the Peace to take over the duties of another Justice in the same county in case of illness; providing additional methods of publication of unclaimed bank deposits every five years; authorizing Probate Judges to issue orders on sale of assets of estates of insane persons when the court is in vacation; increasing the pay of the county surveyor's assistants in certain counties; increasing the pay of the Circuit Court reporter in Pettis County.

Measures Killed.
Bills killed by the House provided a reward of $500 for the informants in fish dynamiting cases; proposed changes in the method of distributing foreign insurance company taxes to the counties for free school textbook purposes; proposed a State commission with authority to prescribe uniform school textbooks in school districts, except in cities; and proposed State licensing of solicitors for charitable funds and other subscription movements.

PREMIER OF CHILE DENIES PLEA FOR DEPORTED JUDGE

Tells Supreme Court That Removal of Urzua Was in Interest of Tranquillity.

By the Associated Press.
SANTIAGO, Chile, March 4.—"Extraordinary circumstances," the Government announces, prompted the deportation of Felipe Urzua, President of the Court of Appeals, and the others who were sent out of the country several days ago. The authorities say they acted in behalf of public order and tranquility. The Government denies a request of the Supreme Court that Urzua be returned to Chile and reinstated in office.

Urzua and 19 others were deported after more than 300 alleged communists were arrested. Premier Ibanez declared he would rid the country of communist and political oppositionists.

The Democratic party, in a manifesto yesterday, declared its adherence to the Government's policy, but appealed for leniency toward the workers detained, on the ground that they were unwitting victims of oppression and ignorance.

Ed Knox, Retired Boxer, Dies.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 4.—Ed Knox, 46 years old, who in his youth was a lightweight boxer, is dead. He lost to Tommy Moatt, the fighting conductor, in the hardest battle of the latter's career. Mr. Knox had conducted a cigar store here for many years.

And when I feel constipated, with headache and biliousness, I also get my share of Syrup Pepsin. REPORT GIVING GOULD SENATE SEAT ADOPTED Upper House Also Receives Committee's Credentials for Vare and Smith.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, March 4.—The Senate adopted today the report of the Elections Committee holding Senator Gould (Rep.) of Maine, entitled to his seat despite charges of bribery of a former Premier of New Brunswick, Canada.

The report of the Senate Elections Committee declaring the credentials of Senators-elect William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, and Frank L. Smith of Illinois, were in "due form," was presented today to the Senate.

The report was submitted by Chairman Ernst of the committee, and Vice President Dawes ruled no action on it was necessary. It stood, he said, "as received." Senator Caraway (Dem.), Arkansas, a member of the committee, explained that the report "merely passes on the credentials as in proper form." "Then it will have no bearing on the next Congress against either," asked Senator Reed of Missouri, chairman of the Special Campaign Funds Committee which investigated the Illinois and Pennsylvania campaigns. Caraway said the right of the Senators to their seats had not been considered.

Senate officers said the receipt of the committee report by the Senate automatically would put both Vare and Smith on the Senate roll, beginning tomorrow.

HOUSE LISTENS TO EULOGY ON LONGWORTH BY DEMOCRAT

Pou of North Carolina Says G. O. P. Might Do Itself Proud by Naming Speaker for Presidency.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The House yesterday found time to listen to a 10-minute eulogy of Speaker Longworth.

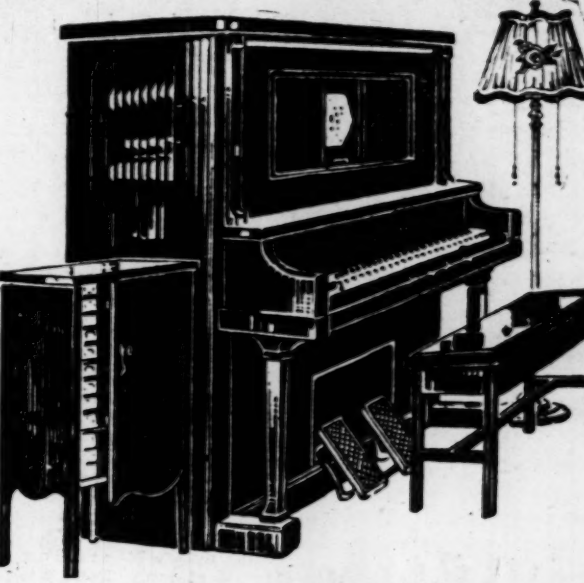

While both Republicans and Democrats applauded, Representative Pou of North Carolina, a Democrat, spoke of the "fair and statesmanlike manner in which Speaker Longworth presided over the session."

"I am sure," Pou said, "that every member in this House wishes him greater successes in the future."

"We cannot agree with the Speaker politically, but we can acknowledge the fact that he is a fair fighter. Possibly some of us cannot vote for him if the time comes when the nation shall call for his services. We cannot vote for him on election day, but we can vote for him in the way of a nomination."

"A great many of us feel that our old enemy, the Republican party, might do itself proud if in time it shall put him forth as a candidate for the greatest office in the gift of the American people."

BOND ISSUE COMMITTEE

WAITS TO HEAR FROM NOLTE Approves Smaller Contracts but Delays Action on $1,500,000 Lighting Installation.

The Citizens' Bond Issue Supervisory Committee yesterday approved an ordinance appropriating $125,000 for installing electric lights on 22 miles of streets scheduled for reconstruction in 1927.

The committee deferred action on the ordinance recommended by Director of Public Utilities Frick, and authorizing an appropriation of $1,500,000 for the installation of electric lights in the district bounded by the Mississippi River on the west, Chouteau on the north and Delor street on the south until next Thursday's meeting when Comptroller Nolte will be asked to report on the status of the $1,500,000 appropriation in the bond issue.

SCRATCHED ITCHING SKIN UNTIL IT BLEEDS
Believed at once by a simple treatment.

Evans City, Pa., April 2.—"Some time ago I had a bad case of eczema and skin itching. At times it scratched my skin until the blood ran. Then our family doctor advised me to use Resinol Soap at bedtime. I obtained relief at once and before long new, smooth skin had taken the place of the old sores. If Resinol should cost me twice as much I would never let without it as I do not think there is a soap or ointment on the market that equals it, and it seems to me have tried almost all of them. Resinol Soap is most refreshing and pleasant to use, and Resinol Ointment has quick healing power. I have recommended these products to many people and expect to continue to do so." (Signed) E. E. BONDSMAN ROSE HITS A SNAG IN FEDERAL COURT Perjury Indictment Based on Evidence Identical to That on Which Sidener Refuses to Act.

POST-DISPATCH DISCLOSED FACTS

United States Attorney Says His Inquiry Was Prompted by Newspaper Publication.

The indictment of Louis Rose, professional bondsman, by the Federal grand jury yesterday, for perjury in qualifying as surety on a bond before United States Commissioner Atkins, was the result of an inquiry based on information published exclusively in the Post-Dispatch last Oct. 29 and Nov. 2, District Attorney Brewer stated today.

When the Post-Dispatch disclosed that Rose had falsely claimed to own certain property, in qualifying as a bondsman in the State courts, the District Attorney said, Department of Justice agents began a check to determine if Rose had also misstated his holdings in qualifying in the Federal Courts. Their investigation showed Rose had misrepresented his qualifications in the Federal as well as the State courts, and the indictment resulted.

The penalty for the offense charged against Rose is a five-year prison term or $2000 fine or both. Sidener Still Lethargic.

The prompt action of the Federal authorities is in striking contrast with the persistent refusal of Circuit Attorney Sidener to prosecute Rose, although a grand jury investigation had been requested of Sidener by Circuit Judge Frey four months ago. The State had an added incentive to prosecute Rose as he had evaded payment of three forfeited $10,000 bonds of transferring real estate to others on the day the bonds were forfeited. In the Federal case, the bond was not forfeited, and the prisoner for whom Rose furnished bond is now serving a four-year term at Leavenworth.

The Federal indictment charges that Rose, in furnishing $15,000 bond last Sept. 22 for Willie Jamison—who later pleaded guilty of selling narcotics—swore that he personally owned property at 1014-16 Park avenue, 2802-04 Texas avenue and 2824 Washington avenue, all clear of debt; a lot at the northwest corner of Olive Street and Meyer roads, subject to a $5000 mortgage, and was worth $75,000 over and above his obligations.

Basis of Charge.

The facts were, the indictment charges, that Rose was not worth $75,000, and did not own the Park avenue, Texas avenue or Olive Street road property at the time. The indictment states Rose had deeded the Park avenue property to Celia Rubin March 9, 1926; the Texas avenue property to Frank and Mary Goebel, Aug. 23, and the Olive Street road lot to Carmen A. Newcomb Jr., Sept. 4. Newcomb, a nephew of Rose, is an attorney and formerly an Assistant United States District Attorney.

In the State courts Rose made affidavit that he owned the Texas avenue, Washington avenue and Olive Street road properties, and the Orpheum Hotel, 106 North Ninth street. Judge Frey investigated and announced Rose had exaggerated his equity in the Texas avenue building and had no equity at all in the other properties, at the time mentioned. Judge Frey thereupon canceled a $10,000 bond furnished by Rose for Tony Guarino, a robbery suspect.

A Coincidence.

AUG. 23, the date when Rose transferred the Texas avenue property to Frank and Mary Goebel, was the day when three $10,000 bonds which Rose had signed for Michael Sullivan, robbery suspect, were forfeited, when Sullivan failed to appear in Court of Criminal Correction. This was called to the attention of Sidener by Judge Frey.

Circuit Attorney Sidener became angry today when informed by a Post-Dispatch reporter that the Federal grand jury had indicted Rose for perjury for an offense similar to the offense he committed by filing a false affidavit in the Circuit Court, and which Sidener has refused to present to the State grand jury. Turning on his heel he walked away from the reporter, calling over his shoulder: "When I get ready to consider the Rose case I'll discuss it with you."

Four $1000 bonds signed by Rose in Federal Court are in default and one has been reduced to judgment. District Attorney Brewer plans to levy on Rose's property, if any can be found. A warrant for the arrest of Rose will be issued. He is thought to be at Hot Springs, Ark. His nephew, Newcomb, called on Brewer today, but would not reveal his mission.

Safe Burglars Obtain $125.

LITTLE KNOWN SECTION ALASKA TO BE EXPLORED

Department of Interior Experts Will Travel on Foot and in Canoes in Search for Oil.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The almost unknown section of Alaska, north of the Klondike, west of the Canadian border and south of the Arctic wastes, will be explored this year by an intrepid quartet of Interior Department experts who are familiar with conditions there and like them.

Gerald Fitzgerald, topographer, already is en route to Alaska to reconnoiter and cache stores which the party will need during the summer. He will go overland by dog sled from Fairbanks to Fort Yukon, and after completing his preliminary work, will be joined early in the summer at the east fork of the Chandalar River by J. B. Mertie Jr., geologist and chief of the party, and the other members.

When the ice has thawed sufficiently, the four will then set out, traveling mostly on foot or in canoes, to collect data on geology, geography, topography and mineral resources of the country, with particular attention to indications of oil.

Dr. Ira Remsen Seriously Ill.

CARMEI, Cal., March 4.—Dr. Ira Remsen, 81 years old, president emeritus of Johns Hopkins University, is seriously ill. Attending physicians are doubtful as to whether he will recover.

GUNMAN ACQUITTED OF MURDER

VALPARAISO, Ind., March 4.—Frank McErlane, reputed gunman and gang leader in Chicago, has been acquitted of the murder of Thaddeus Fancher, Crown Point (Ind.) attorney.

Fancher was shot and beaten in a roadside north of Crown Point, the night of May 4, 1924. Several men entered the resort and demanded whisky. When they were refused they held up the patrons, beat some and began shooting. McErlane's defense was an abbi. John O'Reilly, captured when he was injured in an automobile accident as he sped from the roadside, was convicted of participation in the murder and is serving a life sentence. He was the chief witness against McErlane.

SENATE CONFIRMS NOMINATION OF THREE FOR RADIO BOARD

Interstate Commerce Committee Refuses to Act on Appointment of Two Others.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The nomination of three of the five men selected by President Coolidge to be members of the new Radio Commission were approved early today by the Senate.

Those confirmed were Rear Admiral W. H. G. Bullard, retired, of Media (Pa.); John F. Dillon of California, and Eugene O. Sykes of Mississippi.

Action on the nominations of O. H. Caldwell of New York, and H. A. Bellows of Minnesota, was deferred with the understanding the Interstate Commerce Committee would consider them today.

REED CALLS ON HIS COLLEAGUES NOT TO GIVE UP FIGHT

Missourian Climaxes Long Senate Vigil With Plea Against Surrender to Filibuster on Commission.

VOICE CRASHES LIKE ROLL OF THUNDER

Makes Powerful Speech Greatest Effort of His Career and As Impressive As Any This Session.

* Post-Dispatch Bureau.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The speech made by Senator Reed of Missouri in the Senate late yesterday afternoon, appealing to his colleagues not to surrender to the filibuster against extending the life of his "slush" fund investigation committee, will rank as one of the best of Reed's forensic efforts.

Both the galleries and the Senate were paid him the tribute of their closest attention. Reed's speech followed a motion by Senator Warren (Rep.) of Wyoming, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, to take up the second deficiency bill.

Scoring the obstructionists tactics of Senator Reed of Pennsylvania as a "marked loathsome, spiteful filibuster," the Missourian declared, "You may filibuster to death my resolution, but the knife that you drive through its heart will pierce the bills all of us are interested in."

Warren said that he spoke as a noncombatant in the struggle. He asked that the Senate rise above the difficulties which have prevented action on the appropriation bill.

"No man has a better right to make that appeal than the Senator from Wyoming," Reed said. "The place for that appeal is in the men who have sought to hold up all the business of the Senate. The amount of words can cover up the bald and naked facts of the situation. The Senate for years has appointed general committees to investigate general conditions in the United States. Time and time again that kind of committee has been created and at no time has any committee broken the trust imposed in it."

"I was member of the Kenyon Committee, the majority of which was made up of Republicans, and no one ever charged that committee with breaking its trust."

Two Quixotic Nipped much corruption that at least gentlemen found the flowers of their presidential ambition so hard to frostbite that they never bore any fruit.

"An old soap manufacturer, who had made ivory soap float, decided that he could float a general campaign—and Gen. Wood retired from the scene."

"I recall that $25,000 was paid certain political bosses in Missouri who proceeded against the people of that State—for a majority favored Senator Johnson—and for the price of money Johnson in hand, the Missouri delegation was delivered to Mr. Lowden, the champion and friend of the farmer."

There was conclusive evidence before that committee of a scheme for raising revenue for the campaign, which would have resulted in $14,000,000 or $15,000,000 being collected, and it was because of the investigation that the work raising that money was largely aborted.

Named by Vice-President. "No one complained that the committee had a roving commission. When this (the Reed) committee was created, no one protested against the broad powers that were given to it. A motion was made to block the creation of the committee but when that motion was overwhelmingly defeated the committee was created."

The Vice-President made a selection of committee members and no one will question the fact that Vice-President James is a Republican.

"Political campaigns could have scars, the Vice President would look like a tattooed man and the scars would be in the back of his head, for no one could charge that the Vice President ever turned his back on a foe. Omitting myself from consideration, there has never been selected a more capable committee from the Senate."

Reed Committee Found Something. "What is the matter with the committee? I'll tell you the reason. The attacks upon it are so bad that something, if it comes to that, would sound to be a disaster."

When did it suddenly transpire that this committee was dangerous?

Home Rule for Police Efficiency.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

YOUR terse editorial comment entitled "Fifteen Holdups" is to the point. St. Louis has an efficient Police Department, supervised by a competent Chief of Police. The law which governs the organization of a police force does not get the best results, because the Board of Police Commissioners are appointed by the Governor of the State, under a law which does not permit the Governor to succeed himself in office, with the result that when we have a change in the Governor's office every four years, we have a change in the Board of Police Commissioners. Indeed, because of the unsatisfactory conditions, very few Police Commissioners hold office as long as four years.

The present law governing our Police Department were passed to meet conditions existing at the time of the Civil War, and the citizens of our good city, after so long a period, ought to be able conscientiously to control the organization of the Police Department under a law which perhaps might give the Governor of the State, under certain conditions, some power of removal of one Police Commissioner, whose appointment should be dictated by the citizens of St. Louis themselves.

The Chief of the police force is doing the best he can with the number of men at his disposal, and he in turn, is subject to the directions of the Board of Police Commissioners, who are not necessarily versed in the handling of criminal regulations.

With the large amount of crime that is now with us, it is a debatable question whether minor offenses such as holding automobiles 10 minutes beyond a specified time are as important to supervision by the police as having these same officers assigned to preventing crimes and arresting those who commit them.

A casual talk with members of the Police Department here and there will show any citizen that the police force is more or less demoralized, because of the fact that no officer knows 30 days ahead where he will be stationed during the next 60 or 90 days. There may be a few inefficient officers in the department, the same as there is inefficiency in any large organization, but most of the members of the department are ambitious and want to make the best showing possible. No organization, whether it be banking, merchandising, manufacturing or whatnot, could get efficiency by shifting all its employees three or four times a year.

In the case of the police officers, the traffic could be better handled were an officer allowed to remain long enough at one location to understand the process of traffic at that particular intersection, which is more or less the same each day in the year.

What we need in St. Louis is home rule for the Police Department, and as chairman of the Home Rule Committee of One Hundred, which committee endeavored to give this to the citizens of our city a few years ago, the writer wishes to commend the attitude taken in the Post-Dispatch editorial.

SAM D. CAPEN.

Militarism in the Schools.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

PROPOSAL of the letter published in this column Feb. 26, signed "John A. Hall, Captain Medical Corps, U. S. Army and Citizen of the United States," his very manner of signing the letter shows him to be primarily a militarist, and secondarily a citizen of the United States.

His reference to the "constitutional guarantee of free speech" (in criticism of your splendid editorial of Feb. 23, directed against Maj. Wilson and Capt. Turley, R. O. T. C., Washington University) borders on absurdity, as the very men whom he attempts to defend are the ones who would limit that very right, in others (not of the R. O. T. C., of course), to wit, Jane Addams, Kirby Page and Sherwood Eddy.

In a recent issue of the Post-Dispatch there is a fine letter from "Not-Quite-A-B," presumably a student at the university, who has not been hood-winked by "Blade and Scabbard" or War Department propaganda. I heartily agree with him that the faculty be urged to invite Miss Addams to address the students, and let them honestly judge whether she is the "dangerous woman" the R. O. T. C. officers would have them believe.

It seems to me that we need more such "dangerous" individuals whose life-long efforts are directed toward national and international peace, and fewer R. O. T. C. officers who take advantage of their positions as such to influence the students under their command. I am aware the R. O. T. C. is a separate unit of the university, still I am equally sure no other department would be permitted to use the tactics they are using without being asked for proofs of their accusations, to say the least.

Yours for constructive, not destructive, criticism at Washington University.

SWIPE THE BARNACLES.

BARNACLE—A thoracic cirriped crustacean, sessile, as an acorn-shell or barnacle, or stalked, as a goose barnacle or lepadid, found attached to rocks, floating timber, ships, etc.—Standard Dictionary.

Barnacles attach themselves to ships and cling to the hull. When the hull of a ship is coated with barnacles, the ship's movement is impeded. It drags, goes slow and therefore its movement is costly and the overhead is expensive. The only thing to do with it is to put it in drydock and rake the barnacles off.

We wonder what is the matter with our ships of state—the big ship at Washington, the governmental ships in the various states and the municipal vessels. They drag in their movements. They are slow and costly.

The answer is plain—barnacles. The barnacle which clings to the ship of state and makes its movement slow and costly is not the sessile, thoracic cirriped crustacean. It is the sessile genus homo. It is a human barnacle. It may be more accurately described as a political parasite, which attaches itself to governmental ships and clings to them.

The human barnacle is the dependent of the political boss or the political party, whose sustenance is derived from the spoils of office. Bureaus are created and offices multiplied so that more and more barnacles may find places to cling and draw their sustenance.

The governmental bureau is a hotbed of barnacles. So is the governmental board. So is the governmental commission. When new bureaus are created, boards and commissions are multiplied, offices are duplicated, the barnacle flourishes. The cost of government is increased. To nourish the barnacles and pay the cost of the dragging ship, more and more revenue is needed. Taxes must be multiplied and increased. The people pay.

The foster mother of the governmental barnacle is partisan politics. Partisan politics sees to it that the Government is not run for the benefit of the people, but for the benefit of the barnacles.

The governmental ships need cleaning. When the barnacles are scraped off, the speed and efficiency of the ships will be vastly increased, and the cost of moving them greatly reduced.

It is true that the actual cost of government, like the cost of living, has increased. But it has increased far beyond the economic standard. The necessary increase is used as a cloak to cover wanton extravagance, official spoils and wanton waste by official barnacles.

When we get rid of the barnacles and parasites in politics we can easily take care of the normal increase in the cost of government. We can do it on less taxes.

Swipe the barnacles and the governmental ships will move with speed and economy. Put them in dry dock and clean them up.

ANOTHER CRISIS.

What is said to have been the most extravagant woman in the country has just died in New York, and we take it there will be a breathless interval among married men until it is known who is to be her successor.

This is not a distinction for which most men would care to thrust their wives forward, but what man with a good free-spending wife can be sure that she will not win anyway? It is a crisis that we find ourselves in. Do you believe that the woman so known in New York was not proud of it and did not cut loose ad lib in defense of her fame? Then you can believe that a great many open-handed women are not going to give their husbands heart failure by trying to take the honor over.

What it means to have a wife like this is indicated by the story from New York. The deceased champion spent $1000 a day. She had three husbands, and survived them all. She also had an extremely large fortune and widowed that. Tremble, men.

Mr. Gould of Maine has been admitted to the Senate, but we take pride and pleasure in announcing that the Canadian official to whom Gould gave $100,000 will never be a Senator of the United States as long as New Brunswick is where she is.

PROHIBITION IN A NICE NEW FROCK.

Another experiment in prohibition enforcement has been authorized by Congress. The reorganization bill, which, with the aid of wet Senators, got through the end-of-the-session jam, sets up a separate prohibition bureau in the Treasury Department. A jubilant statement issued jointly by the two Antisocial League leaders, Dr. McBride and Wayne Wheeler, says that "practically all dry agents will now be under civil service" and out of politics.

The American people, of course, are aware that this might have been the status of prohibition from the outset had the grand headquarters of the Antisocial League so desired it. Seemingly, the dry leaders thought it good strategy in the beginning to leave prohibition in the profitable area of political patronage; that the sympathy and loyalty of Congressmen to the cause could more easily be conserved if there were appetizing jobs to distribute to deserving party workers. The American people also know that the man most responsible for the reorganization plan is not Dr. McBride or Mr. Wheeler, but Gen. Andrews, who, as Senator Wadsworth truly said, "is working his heart out to clean up this mess."

High hopes are entertained for better enforcement under this new order. Well, this is the hopeful hour. In candor, however, it should be said that the public will not be allured by rapturous reports on this latest enforcement experiment. The eloquence and lyric sweetness of propagandists like Mr. Wheeler and Maj. Haynes beguile no more.

After six years of tragedy and farce the American people will believe in prohibition enforcement only when they see it. They have seen no sign or token of it yet.

To Gen. Andrews, packing the burden of Atlas—good luck.

Human life in the United States has lengthened 8.33 years since 1911. Investigation will likely show that it was about that time everybody began to play golf.

THE BAKER-ENLOE COMBINE.

Another insight into the beautiful friendship between Gov. Baker and Doc Enloe was given by the testimony before the Senate committee of A. S. Steinbeck. Steinbeck, having been appointed a member of the Penal Board at the time Enloe was made director, innocently supposed that he would have some authority in the affairs of prison management. He soon discovered his error. As long ago as April, 1925, he was rebuked by Enloe for presuming to make a favorable purchase of supplies for the prison. In many instances where he thought mistakes were being made in prison management he was given to understand that Enloe was the boss.

Steinbeck, unable to do anything with Enloe and convinced that public interest was not being properly safeguarded, ventured to approach the Governor one fine day to tell him "what is going on out there." The Governor was not interested in what his own appointee on the Penal Board had to say. Steinbeck was curtly informed that the Governor would get his reports about the prison from the director, Dr. Enloe.

It was then that Steinbeck learned the significance of the words uttered by the Governor when he introduced his Penal Board to the penitentiary staff. "Gentlemen," he said, "there is my new board and here (laying his hand on the diminutive Enloe's shoulder) is my little boss—my boss of the prison." Baker and his little boss have failed to explain:

1. Why the prison's surplus fund has dwindled from $494,000 to $12,000.

2. Why the prison, which should be self-supporting, in two years has gone $600,000 in the hole.

3. The numerous accusations of incompetency, carelessness, irregularity and corruption which have been leveled at Dr. Enloe's management for the last two years.

Further, Enloe, supported by Baker, has endeavored to prevent the airing of prison affairs, and on the stand before the Senate committee was an evasive, unwilling witness.

After a maze of underground political intrigue had failed to sidetrack the appointment of an investigating committee, that committee has been hindered by Enloe in every possible way in its quest for the truth.

The public may draw its own conclusions from the spectacle of a public official who will not come clean about the management of a public institution and a Governor who supports him in that policy.

A LESSON FROM THE FILIBUSTER.

What happened in the Senate at the close of the Sixty-ninth Congress added pertinence to the Norris resolution which would do away with the short session and its revengeful lame ducks. This resolution has passed the Senate three times by almost unanimous vote, and by resort to political trickery the Republican leaders of the House have always contrived to defeat it. Instead of resuming with the old Congress and its repudiated members last Dec. 1, we might have begun a new session under this resolution and substituted for those defeated the newly elected members. Senator Norris made this point during the great filibuster against the Reed investigating committee, and it would be a pity if its importance were lost upon the country.

As a matter of fact, the necessities of the country must very soon carry us beyond the Norris resolution to a consideration whether Congress should not, except for brief vacations, be continuously in session. The British Parliament, the French Chamber of Deputies and the German Reichstag have all found that long intervals between sessions do not meet the necessities of a great country in these days. With the growth of representative government it is not found advisable to leave the executive departments in command too long. We have two striking illustrations of this in the efforts to bridge that gulf in our own case by empowering the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate and the Reed investigating committee to continue to function through the summer. Senator Borah does not want a clear field given to Messrs. Coolidge and Kellogg in Mexico and Nicaragua when Congress adjourns. Senator Reed wants to keep on after those who would corrupt the ballot.

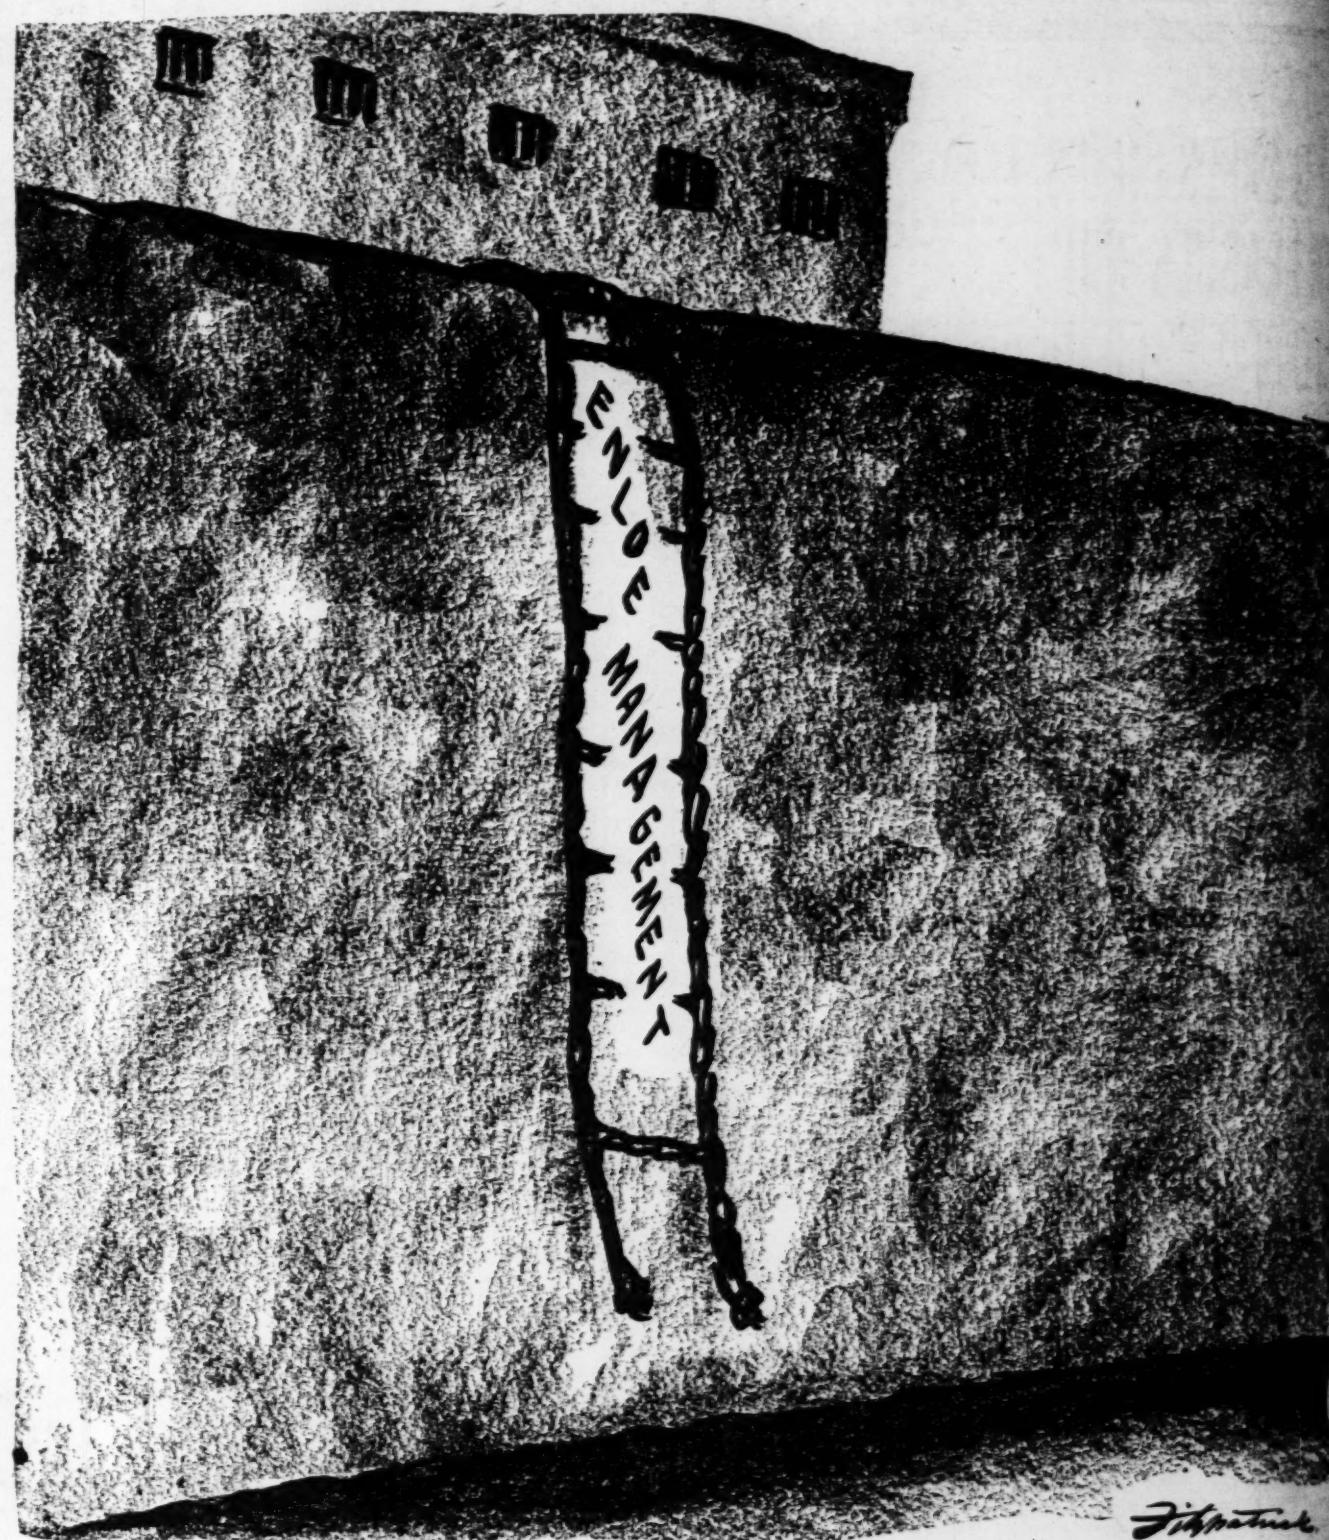

That is a sufficient index to our own growing need of an almost continuous Congress, and it is in response to this same necessity that England, Germany and France have found that the former periodicity of their parliamentary sessions does not mean very much in this stirring age. Except in summer all those parliamentary bodies are almost continuously in session. They fix their own time for adjournment. A filibuster such as we have just witnessed in the United States is with them impossible. Moreover, they keep the nation's business in better shape than our Congress possibly can. There is no such thing with them as the nine-months interval which will intervene now until the Seventieth Congress meets.

With the passing of political omnipotence by individuals, a phenomenon so rare in our day that we look with amazement upon a Mussolini or a Ribera, government becomes steadily more sensitive to the popular will. Our best assurance these last few months that we would not provoke war with Mexico by invading her has been that Congress was in session. That is the best assurance of every great country that it will not be carried off arbitrarily into some empire against the popular wish. When Congress adjourns today Mr. Coolidge becomes monarch of all he surveys. There is no other such political Alexander Selkirk in a representative Government.

THE WEARY PEERS.

The most important question considered in the House of Lords since it was draped in lavender and old lace in 1911 was propounded the other day by Lord Burnham, namely, "Why do we exist?" Lord Carson, who apparently has a zeal of speculation exceeded only by Descartes and a few other philosophers, tried to answer, but gave up after admitting that fewer than one-tenth of the peers attend regularly, while the rest consider the House an awful bore.

If we may do so, we should like to offer a constructive suggestion. In the thought that a change in routine would help attendance and liven up the sessions. It appears that the legislative sessions of the weary peers begin at 4:15 in the afternoon and sometimes last through the dinner hour. These sessions are held every afternoon in the week except Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday. We think if there were an interval for tea, say from 4:30 to 5:15, the dreariness of the day might be broken. Remember, old dears, the adage, all work and no play—

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

THE TROUBLE.

FROM THE BALTIMORE EVENING SUN.
AFTER all the "great argument about it and about" a Standard Oil man resident in China has put the whole business into a couple of lines. His letter to a friend in Baltimore is quoted in the Sun this morning. It contains this statement:

The main trouble lies in China's desire to assert herself in her own affairs. That is the main trouble. In fact, one is tempted to amend the statement by saying it is the whole trouble. And not in China alone. It is also the main trouble in Nicaragua. It is the main trouble in Mexico. It is the main trouble in Haiti, and in Cuba, and in the Virgin Islands and in the Philippines. It is the main trouble throughout the far-flung empire that Mr. Kellogg is with difficulty holding down by means of the bayonets of his Marines.

All these foreign nations have the audacity to assert that we have no more right to interfere with their affairs than they have to interfere with ours, and that in face of the fact that we have the ships, we have the men, we have the money, too. However, it is no new thing. Every empire in the history of the world has encountered the same difficulty, and the method of treatment is well known and beautifully simple. In the Philippines we worked it into one sentence: "Civilians 'em with a Krag.' Kill enough Chinese and the rest will abandon their contumacious desire, to manage their own affairs. The difficulty will arise, of course, out of the fact that there are 400,000,000 Chinese.

SWEDEN'S PEACE PACTS.

FROM THE PROVIDENCE BULLETIN.

HRE'S a fine, brief treaty: Sweden and Belgium have agreed never to go to war over any subject whatsoever. Already Sweden has signed such a treaty with Denmark and Finland. Their representatives may indulge in a lot of heated jargon about property rights, tariffs, unjust discriminations and scores of interests which ardent patriots are apt to call vital; they may even rise up with red faces to defend points of national honor. But they can send no warriors along the Vikings' way—or the Norsemen's path to settle their quarrels in blood. Their wits failing, they must abide by the consequences. This should encourage statesmanship of a high order. How harmless do intrigue and secret diplomacy become in the light of this simple agreement! What terror and strain, what "round and furling" anything might be spared this world if statesmen could be persuaded to relax for a minute and sign under the little sentence: "We agree never to go to war over any subject whatsoever."

CHANCE FOR A COMEBACK.

FROM THE HARTFORD COURANT.
WE have been wondering whether United States Senator Gould of Maine has any sense of humor. If he has, he must be tempted to start an investigation of the conduct of Senators Glass of Virginia and Wheeler of Montana, who had a near fist fight on the floor of the Senate the other day. The Senate has the power to discipline members for "disorderly behavior," and even to expel, and Senator Gould would be less than human if he didn't relish a chance to get back at some of the members of the "private club" who have questioned his conduct.

BATHS ON THE FARM.

FROM THE NEW YORK HERALD-TRIBUNE.
BATHTUBS have been both praised and blamed unreasonably. It is pointed out that they did not save Pompeii, and they are generally held accessory to British imperialism. On the other hand, many regard them in their fixed and fauceted form as well-springs of the present civilization of the United States, overflowing with benefits. And so sanitary gratification was loud when the statisticians of "Capper's Weekly" gave out the findings that bathtubs already bless 1,375,353 farm homes in our land, an average of one tub for every five farms, and are multiplying monthly.

THE FIRST RADIO KNIGHT.

FROM LONDON TID BITS.

THE first wireless knight, Mr. J. C. W. Reth, well known as managing director of the old British Broadcasting Co., and now director-general of the new corporation, is a tall, rugged-faced Scot, not yet 40 years old. He was born in Aberdeen and started his career as an apprentice at the North British Locomotive Works. But he was born for great things and after a year with the Scottish Rifles (his face is still scarred through a Loos wound), the war found him supervising the production of munitions in America, where he made his reputation as an organizer. Wireless gave him his next chance, though when he was appointed managing director he had no expert knowledge of wireless whatever.

COOLIDGE'S VETO.

ANOTHER amusing, not to say instructive, pastime for the long winter evenings would be to take Mr. Coolidge's veto message and carefully substitute the words, "Fordney tariff" for "McNary-Haugen bill" throughout.

NOT TO MENTION WM. HALE THOMSON, SCAR FACE JOE CAPONE AND THE STOCKYARDS.

Sir: I have noticed in your column of the 27th a paragraph about the stockyards in Chicago. With all due respect to St. Louis, it seems to me that a small, old city with gas lights on the streets, an art institute in the middle of the park reserved for autoists only, the big des Peres as an open sewer through the best residential district and street cars the fastest mode of transportation we have, have discretion enough to avoid such bricks from a glass abode. The river and Lake Shore drive! Oh, dear me! A. H. G.

The man who first dared make them and live, pastime for the long winter evenings would be to take Mr. Coolidge's veto message and carefully substitute the words, "Fordney tariff" for "McNary-Haugen bill" throughout.

Drunkness, according to Mayor William W. W. is always an accident. It is necessary, if a man gets drunk on the Volstead act says is intoxicating, to be a miracle.

WAYS OF LIVING. Edited by Prof. J. Arthur Thomson. Doran. Queen Elizabeth. By Sidney Dark. (Doran.)

THE Modern Readers' Bookshelf, edited by Sidney Dark and John Farrar, promises to be at least as valuable to those who are eager for understanding the Home University Library as the Home University Library.

As in the latter series, all books in the Modern Readers' Bookshelf will be new works planned especially to further the purpose of the publisher and editor, Prof. J. Arthur Thomson, whose plan is "to remodel common sense in the light of added knowledge." The series is planned to cover a wide scope in history, literature, biography and science. "Ways of Living," one of the recent additions to the Bookshelf, is a symposium of scientists on the various modes of life to be observed in the study of plants and animals, the purpose of the contributors being "to afford some suggestions to thoughtful men on the important question of human social relations. The five contributions were given as lectures at the University of Aberdeen, Scotland, by five members of the faculty. Three ways of life, common in the subhuman world, are discussed—the individualistic, the parasitic and the co-operative. In each case both the advantages and disadvantages are examined without prejudice, and suggestions are made for possible applications of the principles involved to human affairs.

As a contribution to social thought this symposium seems to be unique. Those who have attacked themselves passionately to some cut-and-dried social program should do themselves the great service of reading this same discussion. Here are no doctrines, assumptions, dogmatism, but men who want to know.

A final chapter undertakes to correlate the various positions taken by the contributors.

One of the best desirable tendencies in the present state of industry and learning is that toward the isolation of specialists, each filling up within his own tight domain knowledge that should profoundly affect other specialties, or be affected by them. There are, of course, no special fields in nature, for everything flows; and, in the larger sense, there can be no unrelated facts. An exceptionally timely and illuminating book, "Ways of Life" is of special interest, for here specialists in Natural History and Zoology sit down to talk with their brothers in Sociology.

In his "Queen Elizabeth," also a recent issue of the Bookshelf series.

SYMPHONY MAY BREAK EVEN BY CANCELING SPRING TOUR

Arrangements Made With Board of Education for Series of High School Concerts in St. Louis, March 4 to 21, for the annual Spring tour, gives the Symphony Orchestra a prospect of breaking even instead of the annual $50,000 loss incurred in the spring visit to other cities was explained today.

An arrangement with the Board of Education provides for a nominal admission fee, sufficient to pay the expenses of the orchestra. The symphony management considered the advantage financially, as well as in line with the educational purposes of the orchestra, since a spring tour outside of St. Louis would offer little chance of breaking even.

Scottish Rite Cathedral is the scene for the two remaining sets of Friday and Saturday night of the season. Holders of season tickets and Scottish Rite Masons will be admitted. Pop concerts will be at Washington University House on Sunday and the following Sunday, under an agreement which will enable the orchestra to pay other expenses before the season is closed.

Modern Readers' Bookshelf

Edited by
J. Arthur Thomson, Doran, Queen Elizabeth. By Sidney Doran.

THE Modern Readers' Bookshelf, edited by Sidney Doran and John Farrar, promises to be at least as valuable to those who are eager for understanding as the Home University Library published by Holt—and that is high praise. As in the latter series, the books in the Modern Readers' Bookshelf will be further planned especially for the publisher and editors, which in James Harvey Rockwell's phrase, is "to remodel conditions in the light of added knowledge."

The series is planned to cover a wide scope in history, literature, biography, and science.

"Ways of Living," one of the recent additions to the Bookshelf, is a compendium of scientists on various modes of life to be observed in the study of plants and animals, the purpose of the contributors being "to afford some suggestions on the important question of human social relations. The five contributions were given as lectures at the University of Aberdeen, Scotland, by five members of the faculty. Three ways of life, concerning the subhuman world, are discussed—the individualistic, the parasitic and the co-operative. In each case both the advantages and disadvantages are examined without prejudice, and suggestions are made for possible applications of the principles involved to human affairs.

As a contribution to social thought this symposium seems to be unique. Those who have attached themselves passionately to some cut-and-dried social program should do themselves the great service of reading this same discussion. Here are no doctrinaire, unreasonably disputing, but men who want to know.

A final chapter undertakes to correlate the various positions taken by the contributors.

One of the least desirable tendencies in the present state of inquiry and learning is that toward the isolation of specialists, each setting up within his own tight domain knowledge that should properly affect other specialties, or be affected by them. There are, of course, no special fields in nature, for everything flows; and, in the larger sense, there can be no unrelated facts. An exceptionally gifted university professor said today to the writer that his department in his institution should be called compartments—thought compartments, at that! It is because of this tendency to isolate knowledge within narrow fields that "Ways of Living" is of special interest to here specialists in Natural History and Zoology sit down to talk with their brothers in Sociology.

In his "Queen Elizabeth," also a recent issue of the Bookshelf, a ries, Sidney Doran illustrates in the field of Biography the purpose of the editors. Mr. Doran pictures the "Virgin Queen" by modern methods in the best and rarely employed sense. He is not an "age-bunker," bent upon achieving a sensation at any cost. He is only trying honestly to reveal Elizabeth as she was; and surely that highly gifted, courageous, coarse-tongued, fascinating woman loses nothing important in the white light of the author's candor. No sentimental yarn about anyone who ever lived could be as interesting as the integrated, the full-orbed truth about that person. Mr. Doran has evidently studied for such a long time.

CRUISING AROUND THE SEVEN SEAS. By Stanton Davis Kirkham. (Putnam.)

Mr. Kirkham made his first trip around the world in 1892-94. The experience was repeated with variations 30 years later. In 1924 he cruised about the Mediterranean, voyaged up the Nile to the Sudan and motored through Tunisia and Algeria. During the following year he sailed around South America through the Straits of Magellan. Last year he cruised around Africa and journeyed from Cape Town to Victoria Falls, thence to Portuguese East Africa. His experiences, both objective and subjective, are set forth in the volume under consideration. As life, as such, is out, there is nothing remarkable in these days about such wanderings in themselves. Thousands rove over the globe every year. The value of a travel book is commensurate with the richness of the traveler's personality. Mr. Kirkham's personality is rich and he can write as well as he can think and feel.

THE THIRD BRITISH EMPIRE. By Alfred Zimmern. (Oxford University Press, American Branch, New York.)

Five lectures delivered at Columbia University in 1925. The "First British Empire," so the author points out, took its rise in the early settlements of the Atlantic Coast, and was "extinguished" at least, summarily curtailed, by the revolt of the Colonies in 1776. The "Second British Empire" was built up "through the pioneering work of nineteenth century explorers, traders and administrators." It ceased with the great war. The "Third British Empire" is the present British Commonwealth of Nations. In discussing this commonwealth the author is naturally led to the consideration of present world problems.

Ford Madox Ford seems bent upon sharing honors with the champion blurb-writers of America, than whom none is whom. Not long ago he announced that Ezra Pound was the greatest poet in the world. A little later he said that Ellen Du Bois Taylor's novel, "One Crystal and a Mother," was "entirely admirable and absolutely astonishing." Now he has discovered "a second Madame Bovary."

FASCISM TO BE DEFENDED AND DENOUNCED AT TEA

Prominent St. Louisans to Comment on Article in Survey Graphic Monday Afternoon.

Fascism as portrayed by the Survey Graphic, a special current issue of which is largely devoted to that topic, will be discussed at a tea at the Town Club, 1120 Locust street at 4 p. m. Monday. Readers and members of the Survey and the Survey Graphic have been invited to participate.

Several prominent St. Louisans will comment on the articles, which include a plea for Fascism by Arnaldo Mussolini, brother of the Italian Premier, and a denunciation of it by Prof. Gaetano Salvemini, Italian historian. Other contributors are Thomas W. Lamont, Francis Hackett, William Bolitho, Arthur Livingstone, Henry W. Taft and Prof. W. Y. Elliott of Harvard University. Hostesses for the event are Mrs. Edwin H. Steedman, Mrs. Elias Michael, Mrs. George B. Mangold, Mrs. Virgil Loeb, Mrs. George Gelhorn and Mrs. John A. Haskell.

WAR FUND ORIGINATOR DIES

Mrs. Marjorie Raun, When a Girl, Started Collection of Dimes.

ERIE, Pa., March 4.—Mrs. Marjorie Raun, 24 years old, who 10 years ago became famous as the little girl who started the Marjorie Sterrett Battleship Fund, to which 2,000,000 American school children contributed their dimes, is dead at her home in Wattham, near here.

Shortly before the United States entered the World War, Marjorie Sterrett, then living in New York, conceived the idea of having the school children of the nation give a dime each to build a battleship.

The idea became popular and more than 100 newspapers took part in raising the fund. The War Department, however, objected and the money is now being used for an annual prize for the champion gun crews of the United States.

Browning Jeered at His Society.

Special Correspondence of The Post-Dispatch. MANCHESTER, England, Feb. 4.—One wonders, says the Manchester Guardian, whether Rudyard Kipling will treat the new Kipling Society with such mock deference as Robert Browning did the first society devoted to the study of his work. Unable to understand a passage in one of the poems, a member of the society wrote to Browning asking if he could explain. The answer was: "Certainly I could explain the meaning of the phrase, but if I did, what would be the use of the Browning Society?"

Fred Dalton, Actor, Dies.

By The Associated Press. NEW YORK, March 4.—Fred Dalton, actor and writer, was found dead in his hotel apartment, by his wife, Josephine Dalton, known on the stage several years ago as Josephine West. He had been ill a month and died of pneumonia. Dalton, who was 46 years old, played with Otis Skinner, William Mack and many other stars.

ONCE GAY KING MANUEL HAS TURNED BIBLIOPHILE

His Collection of Portuguese Works of Sixteenth Century Said to Be the Finest in the World.

SPECIAL CABLE TO THE POST-DISPATCH AND THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE. LONDON, March 4.—Former King Emanuel of Portugal, once supposed to be the gayest royalty in Europe, now gives only little time to dancing, hunting and gaming. His main occupation is bibliophily, and in his house at Twickenham he has managed to gather an important collection of Portuguese books printed between 1489 and 1600.

About 1500 volumes line the walls of Manuel's study, artistically bound in leather as only craftsmen of the sixteenth century knew how to bind them. Manuel, when in England, spends most of his time in his library or with dealers who travel through Europe hunting rare volumes.

The former King took a large number of books and manuscripts from the royal palace at Lisbon when he fled from the revolutionaries. His present library is considered the most complete and valuable collection of Portuguese books in existence. An illustrated catalog of the library is in preparation. There will be only a limited number of copies printed at $50 a copy, while 45 copies, numbered and signed by Manuel will be sold at $175 each.

Nelson S. Cobleigh Dies at 82.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, March 4.—Nelson Cobleigh, 82 years old, veteran newspaper man and member of the New York World staff since 1890, is dead of pneumonia at his home in White Plains. He attended McKendree College, Lebanon, Ill., from 1862 until 1865, and went to Harvard University, part time, during 1863 and 1864, while he was still enrolled at McKendree College. He was city editor of the Cleveland Daily Leader in 1868. In 1869 he became associate editor of the Cleveland Plaindealer.

$300,000 FOR CHICAGO ART INSTITUTE IN SUICIDE'S WILL

U. of Chicago Bequeathed $200,000 by George F. Porter, Who Left $3,000,000 Estate.

By The Associated Press. CHICAGO, March 4.—An estate valued at $3,000,000 was left by George French Porter, Republican leader, who ended his life by shooting himself here last week. His will stipulates that the widow, Mrs. Mina De Marmillary Porter, shall receive $100,000 outright and the income from a trust fund of $1,800,000 which may be disposed of in her will as she pleases.

The will, dated two days before he ended his life, gives the Chicago Art Institute $200,000 and the University of Chicago $200,000. If Mrs. Porter should die intestate, an additional $450,000, one-fourth of the trust fund, is given to each of the institutions.

Yale University, the Field Museum, the Chicago Lying-in-Hospital, the Eli Bates House and the Allendale Association each is given $25,000.

Dr. Carl Jung, psychoanalyst of Switzerland, of whom Mr. Porter spoke as "my dear friend," is given a personal bequest of $20,000. Sums ranging from $1000 to $15,000 are given various friends, employees and servants.

MISSOURI U. SINGERS TO USE AUDITORIUM OF ST. LOUIS U.

Glee Club, Scheduled to Appear at Burned Odeon Wednesday, Obtains Another Hall.

The concert by the Glee Club of the University of Missouri next Wednesday night will be held at the St. Louis University auditorium, 3650 Lindell boulevard, instead of the Odeon as originally planned. The change was made necessary by the fire which wrecked the Odeon building Wednesday and rendered the theater unsafe.

In view of the fact that the St. Louis concert was necessary to finance the club's trips to New York for competition in the national contest for university glee clubs, the Missouri organization was placed in a dilemma by the loss of the Odeon and confronted with the prospect of having to cancel its annual appearance here. This was solved, however, when St. Louis University proffered the use of its auditorium.

STUDLESS SHIRT AND COLLAR

British Woman Tells of Inventing Time-Saving Device.

LONDON, March 4.—Man's morning ordeal of stud-finding and fastening is to disappear, thanks to an innovation in shirt fastenings which has been patented by a woman. It is called the "Eden studless shirt and collar," and is the invention of Mrs. L. Eden.

"The idea came to me suddenly while I was playing cards one night and watching my son fiddling with his collar and tie," said Mrs. Eden. "My idea renders any stud completely unnecessary. It is merely the use of buttons which fasten both the shirt and the collar together at the neck, and a little different cutting of the shirtband and collar."

NOT TO MENTION WM. HALE THOMPSON, SCAR FACE JOE CAPONE AND THE STOCKYARDS.

Sir: I have noticed in your column and in the surrounding print a tendency to ridicule Chicago. With all due respect to St. Louis, it seems to me that a small, shall we say city? with gas lights on the best streets, an art institute in the middle of a park reserved for autists only, the River des Peres as an open sewer through the best residential district and street cars as the fastest mode of transportation would have discretion enough to avoid tossing bricks from a glass above. The river front and Lake Shore drive! Oh, dear me!

SOCIAL CONTACTS AID GROWTH OF CHURCH

E. H. Brewer of Lafayette Baptist Congregation Tells of Appeal to Married Folk.

Reports on how the younger married people of a community may be attracted to church and Sunday school were delivered by Abbott Book, director of education of the Union Avenue Christian Church, and Edwin H. Brewer of the Lafayette Baptist Church, at a discussion of the question held last night at the Second Baptist Church, Kingshighway and Washington boulevard.

Brewer, who teaches a Sunday school class of 237 young married persons, recommended that special efforts be made to get young couples to attend the social functions of the church, whether or not they are regular church attendants. If this is done, he pointed out, they will then feel obligated to attend services.

"Young married people," he said, "all have about the same problems to solve and the chief one is financial. Many who are able to afford but few other amusements quickly find that the church activities fill their needs both for social contacts and diversion. The best way to keep young people interested in the church and Sunday school class is to keep them interested in each other. Through hiking clubs, bowling clubs and other such organizations those whose amusement interests run in the same channels may be brought and held together."

Book said in his district, special attention was given to couples who move into the neighborhood by church members resident in that neighborhood.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Mrs. Elizabeth C. Hudson, former motion picture actress, has filed in Supreme Court a counter accusation of infidelity in a divorce suit brought by her husband, Eric K. Hudson, a member of the New York Stock Exchange. She names Vida Whitmore, also known as Frieda Heegel, one of the original Floradora sextet.

Denial of a similar charge made by her husband, who named Julia Brown, a private detective, also is contained in the papers. Mrs. Hudson asks for a jury trial of her husband's charges, $25,000 counsel fees and $1000 a month temporary alimony. Hudson's suit for divorce followed an action by Mrs. Hudson for separation, in which she charged abandonment and separation.

HATRED OF POLICE INSTILLED EARLY,
M'DANIEL SAYS*Parents Who Make Policeman a Bogey to Frighten Children to Blame, Attorney Thinks.

The average citizen bears a grudge against policemen in general, and has a tendency, when on jury duty, to get revenge by voting to free criminals. In the opinion of Lawrence McDaniel, former Circuit Attorney, and Police Commissioner Frank Magoon, who spoke yesterday at the opening session of the convention of Missouri police chiefs, at Hotel Statler.

Fear of the policeman is instilled in many children, McDaniel said, to inspire good conduct. The child is told "the policeman will get him" if he isn't good, and he learns at an early age to fear and to hate the policeman.

McDaniel also said that the speech and manner of many policemen in dealing with children and with citizens was not conducive to respect for the force and that "hooligan cops" were responsible for many acquittals. He was assisted when Circuit Attorney, as declared, to find that in case after case, where the evidence came largely from policemen and where a verdict of guilty seemed to be a foregone conclusion, the jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty."

He could account for this only by the grudge feeling on the part of citizens for policemen. He urged police chiefs to do all in their power to discourage parents from making the policeman "a bogey-man" to their children, and to curb the "hooligan cop."

Police Trained in Courtesy.
Commissioner Magoon, endorsing McDaniel's views, said the course in police training he now included classes in "courtesy and deportment" which are to teach rookie policemen how to deal with civilians without giving offense.

"The modern policeman is being taught courtesy," Commissioner Magoon said, "and he will make friends. Times have changed. There are some old-line policemen who sneer at modern methods. Time will show that courtesy on the part of policemen and the elimination of the 'hooligan' policeman will make a better force."

W. A. Shreeve, Chief of Police of Kansas City, described the "powder and lead" campaign conducted by Kansas City police against criminals.

"Our Kansas City force claims the honor of having killed as many robbers for a period of a year and a half, dating back from October, 1926, as any other city of its size," he said. In that year and a half 24 robbers were killed by patrolmen and detectives and in that time only one policeman was killed by a gunman.

Results of Campaign.
Policemen were stationed in filling stations and stores where robberies had been attempted, with instructions to wait for the arrival of bandits, to give one order of "hands up," and if this were not complied with, to shoot to kill. The filling station robberies in Kansas City were reduced by the campaign from about 50 a month to two or three, and in addition major crime was reduced 60 per cent and general crime 30 per cent, Chief Shreeve said.

The chief purpose of the convention, at which there are representatives from 33 Missouri cities towns and villages, is to take steps looking to the establishment of a State identification bureau for criminals. Virtually every speaker commended favorably the plan. Police Commissioner Arthur Freund stressed the need of making full use of the three city identification systems in the State pending the establishment of the large central bureau.

Central Identification Bureau.
Freund urged the police chiefs from smaller communities to send fingerprints, whenever possible, to the identification bureaus in St. Louis, Kansas City, or St. Joseph. Fuller use of these city systems, he said, by the outlying districts, would result in the capture of many criminals.

The session was called to order by Chief of Police Andrew McDonnell of Webster Groves, its president. Others who spoke at the afternoon meeting were Prosecuting Attorney Fred Mueller, Probate Judge Sam D. Hodgdon of St. Louis County; and Lieut. Richard Joyce of the Criminal Identification Bureau of St. Louis. The St. Louis Police Band, under Lieut. Henry Falkenhainer, played throughout the afternoon on the mezzanine balcony.

The sessions continued today and a banquet will be held this evening. Tomorrow, the final day, the visiting chiefs go on a tour of the city, under the direction of Chief of Police Gerk.

FENCE-CLIMBING INVADER OF AUTO PUZZLES POLICE

The strange behavior of a man who climbed the fence from Lafayette Park last night and crawled on hands and knees to his automobile caused Otto Eizel of 3400 Park avenue to complain to Soudard Street District police.

At 1 a. m. two detectives in an automobile stationed themselves beside the park and watched for the man. Presently he came over the fence, crawled cautiously to the machine and opened a door, whereupon he was arrested.

The man described himself as a Chicago boiler-maker, but would not explain his behavior. In a pocket he had five feet of light rope.

SHOE MERCHANT BUYS $200 WORTH OF GLASS 'DIAMONDS'

Harry Pearlstein, shoe merchant at 1552 Cass avenue, bought four glass "diamonds" for $200 from two swindlers yesterday. No. 1, who pretended to be interested in shoes, showed him the "diamonds" and asked Pearlstein if he knew where he could sell them for $200. No. 2 happened in, looked at the stones, feigned admiration, and whispered to Pearlstein to buy them himself and make some easy money.

Pearlstein did. No. 1 departed with his cash. No. 2 led him to a Franklin avenue corner and told him to wait while he found a man who would pay $500 for the stones. After waiting for two hours, the purchaser consulted a policeman.

TEST CAPT. WILKINS' PLANE

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, March 4.—The Alaskan, Liberty-motored Fokker monoplane, which will be used by Capt. George H. Wilkins, leader of the Detroit News-Wilkins expedition, in his attempts to explore the Arctic "Blind Spot," north of here, is reported in good condition following a test flight.

The plane, which made three trips to Point Barrow last year, when it was being used by the first Wilkins expedition, has been reconditioned and equipped with skills in place of wheels. The plane will drop off for Point Barrow, the northern base, as soon as two Stinson ships, which arrived last night from Detroit, are assembled and tested.

FASCISTS SEEK WAY TO ENLIVEN PRESS

Suppression of Opposition Newspapers Has Made Rome Publications Dull.

Special cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News, Copyright, 1927. ROME, March 4.—The National Directory of the Fascist party met to consider what can be done to improve the tone and emphasize the vigor of the Italian press. Because of the suppression of all opposition journals, a curious situation has arisen, with the Fascist papers so uniform it is difficult to tell them apart. Many types of news are barred and few of the valuable and vigorous polemics so distinctive of the Italian temperament are appearing.

An editorial in the extreme Fascist paper, Tevere, complains that three kinds of major news that existed in the old days no longer are satisfactory. It says the exalted ideals of "Fascism" have rightly barred from the Italian press, each in small quantity, political gossip, news of foreign affairs and news of crime. But elimination of these types of news, it continues, "has produced a certain unpleasant uniformity and emptiness in the Rome papers."

"The Rome press," declares the editorial, "should be like a great organ, with thousands of pipes—pipes for grave notes, high notes, low notes, angry notes, dulcet notes."

Tevere asserts that at present this is not the case. It says the papers have a distressing similarity. "Fascism is against such democratic leveling," it says. "We must have inequalities in journalism."

"Aside from considering this newspaper problem, the meeting of the Directory is expected to suggest possible means for promoting members of 'Avanguardia,' the junior Fascist body for youths between 17 and 22 years old, to full Fascist rank more quickly. The conclusions of the Directory will be submitted to Mussolini."

Dancer Injured During Her Act. By the Associated Press. LONDON, March 4.—Miss Hazel

Harris, American dancer, was severely bruised on the head and shoulder at the Holborn Vaudeville Theater last night when her dancing partner, who was whirling her by the ankles, lost his grip and hurled her across the stage. Recently she had a similar accident in Australia, being flung across the footlights into the audience.

RAUDS ALLEGED IN INDICTMENTS Corporations, Their

Accused of Conspiracy and Evasion of Law.
COUNT INVOLVED
PLACED AT $7789
Individual Defendants

Louis J. Haag and William B. Kinealy, Lawyer.
Three indictments charging conspiracy and evasion of Federal income tax by fraudulent corporations for 1925 were returned in court by the Federal grand jury yesterday against the Kunze Construction Co. and Tower Grove Quarry and Construction Co. of 5927 Flyer avenue the officers of the two companies—Frank C. Webb, president;
Louis J. Haag, secretary-treasurer,
William B. Kinealy, attorney legal adviser.
The indictments charge that the officers of the two concerns were guilty of the tax evasion for which the tax paid for 1925 was $7789.76 less than it should have been paid. They charge that the Webb-Kunze company paid $376.60 when the amount actually due was $7687.66, that the Tower Grove company paid $175.26 when the amount due was $443.97.
The indictments, each naming corporation and the three individuals, charge evasion of income tax, which carries a maximum penalty of a year in jail and $5,000 fine. The third indictment charges conspiracy on the part of the two corporations and individuals in the evasion of the maximum penalty for each offense is a two-year prison term and a $10,000 fine.
The indictments are based on an investigation by Internal revenue agents, who reported that the Kunze company, a grading company, reported a net income of $5012.82, whereas the actual net income was $61,501.16.
Tower Grove company, engaged in quarrying and crushing rock, reported a net income of $14,402.17, net income, whereas the investigators claim it was $7151.77. The variations were caused, it is charged, by statements of earnings and deduction claims.
Resident Webb, who lives at Maple avenue, would not comment on the business. Kinealy, who has a law office in the Central National Bank Building, said he had nothing to do with the 1925 tax return, and suggested that an unofficial error may have slipped when they were compiled.

POPULAR BARBER REJOICES OVER BETTER CONDITIONS

Life-Long Resident of St. Louis, Favorably Known by Thousands, and for Their Own Benefit, He Advises Them to Take the Medicine that Restored Him to Health and Strength.

"When anyone has suffered as I have and then finds a medicine that helps him more than anything he has ever taken, I think it is his duty to tell others about it for their own benefit—hence this statement in behalf of the Herb Extract Remedy."

A. HOEFTLE
In a recent interview with the representative of nature's great Herb Extract, known as Herb Juice, Mr. Hoeftle, popular barber and life-long resident of St. Louis, who resides at 2859 Victor street, continued his statement as follows: "With me it has been a search that has lasted over a period of several years for something that would relieve me of my ailments and restore me to health and strength. I sought in vain for such a remedy until I heard of and used the Herb Extract remedy. Well, you ask me what were my ailments. They are common nowadays, namely, constipation, inactive liver, stomach disorder, then followed indigestion, nervousness, high blood pressure, which caused me to have swimming, dizzy spells in my head and at times I would have to hold on to something to keep from falling. So it was in this dreadfully rundown condition that I started using the herb remedy. And I am telling you I found in this preparation the most wonderful laxative, system purifier and regulator that I have ever been my pleasure to take, Mild

POLICE HOME RULE BILL LIKELY TO FAIL

Senate Engrasses It but Political Row in Kansas City Is Expected to Swamp It.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 4.—Although the Senate today engrossed the St. Louis and Kansas City police home rule bill, there is little likelihood that the present Legislature will pass it. The refusal of the Democratic Senate to amend the bill to provide for the appointment of the Commissioner of Police by the Mayor instead of by some official designated by the Board of Aldermen, probably will cause it to be rejected by the Republican House.

The bill was engrossed by the Senate provides complete home rule in police affairs with one commissioner. Under an amendment offered by Senator Kinney of St. Louis and adopted, home rule would not become effective until after the close of Mayor Miller's administration, the definite date fixed being May 15, 1929.

If defeated, the bill will go down as a result of a contest for political advantage in Kansas City. There, under the city manager form of government, the Democrats are in control of the city council, while the Mayor is a Republican. The Summers amendment was defeated by a strict party vote. If the bill is passed by the Senate, the Summers amendment undoubtedly will be tacked on in the House and the Senate will not concur in it.

A duplicate of the Senate bill was reported favorably by the House Committee on Municipal Corporations yesterday, but with an amendment similar to that which Summers offered in the Senate. On the engrossment of the measure in the Senate today, all of the St. Louis Senators who were present voted for the measure, both Democrats and Republicans. The only negative vote heard—there being no roll call—were those of Senator Ralph of St. Louis County and Senator Summers, both Republicans.

FORMER DETECTIVE INDICTED FOR KILLING OF MELLETT

Fourth True Bill in Murder of Canton, O., Editor Follows Conviction of Rudner.

CANTON, O., March 4.—The Canton police department, long linked by rumor with the killing last July of Don R. Mellett, Canton editor, was drawn officially into the case yesterday with the returning of a murder indictment against Floyd Streitenberger, former city detective, in connection with the case. Streitenberger was arrested a few hours later at Springfield.

Henry W. Hartner, county prosecutor, refused to discuss the evidence on which the indictment was returned. There was no confirmation of reports that a confession had been made by Patrick McDermott, now serving a life sentence in the Ohio Penitentiary for the killing.

In addition to McDermott and Streitenberger, the other men indicted are Ben Rudner, who was committed to the penitentiary Monday to start a life sentence, and Louis Mazer, whose trial is set for March 16.

The indictment recalled a story McDermott was reported to have told relatives at Nanty Glo, Pa., soon after the killing, in which he declared a member of the Canton police was one of the assassins. He later denied the story. Streitenberger openly came to the defense of Mazer by declaring that Mazer was at the Streitenberger home the night of the killing.

Dandruff Heads Become Hairless

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to destroy it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

MUSSOLINI, TOLD HIS DEATH WAS NEAR TWO YEARS AGO, FINDS HEALTH IN MILK DIET

Rigid Adherence to Orders Saved Life and Daily Horseback Rides Before Rome Awakens Keeps Him Fit.

THIS is another of a series of intimate articles on Benito Mussolini, written by Pierre Van Paasen, European staff correspondent of the New York Evening World and the Post-Dispatch, who passed two weeks in Rome in daily touch with the Fascist Premier.
 Other articles will be published from time to time.
 (Copyright, 1927.)

ROME, Feb. 1.—Two years ago there was talk of Mussolini being in a grave physical condition. It was freely predicted he could not live out the year, and that he was slowly succumbing under the inroads of a fatal and extremely painful illness. The ailment of which the Italian Premier suffered was given as cancerous growths in the large intestine. No hope was held out for his recovery and the Fascists prepared themselves for a violent reaction against their regime in the event of his death.

The truth of the matter was that Mussolini was really ill. He suffered intensely, but with that same indomitable spirit which aused him to refrain from a single outcry while the doctors extracted 87 shell splinters from 40 wounds during his sojourn in the military hospital, he never winced.

Medical experts in constant consultation at the Palazzo Chigi were of the opinion that the Premier's life, though it could not be saved entirely, could be prolonged for some time by a rigid adherence to a liquid diet. Mussolini followed their prescriptions and drank nothing but milk for a year, while taking up all kinds of sports and physical exercise.

Starts Horseback Riding.
 As soon as he was able to be about he started to ride horseback. His rides are before Rome awakens from slumber.

 The Duce rides out around 5:30 in the morning and generally takes the direction of the Via Appia Antiqua, where he has an unhindered view of the Lati-an plain through the luminous gold of the Roman morning sun. In the distance are the ruins of the great waterworks erected by the imperial republic, and on the top of the Sabine Hills are to be seen the stunted and crumbling turrets of the castles that once guarded the approaches to the Eternal City against Hannibal, the Carthaginian, and the barbarian hordes ever anxious to despoil the city of its riches.

An aged Gypsy woman recently told Mussolini he would die in his bed and that he had at least 40 more years to live, which would make him 82. He exclaimed at once: "Forty more years? That is fine! If I have all that time left, I can still take up boxing.
 That is something I always wanted to do." And taking on the well-known pugilist position, he added:
 "Who knows, maybe I will be the world's champion some day yet.
 Watch out, Mr. Tunney."

The Duce began training immediately, an instructor was installed at the Palazzo and every morning from 7 till 7:30 Mussolini does a couple of rounds with his sparring partner or a bit of shadow boxing.

Drinks Hot Milk.

This is followed, after a short rest and a glass of hot milk, by a half hour of fencing. Mussolini has the reputation of being a first-class swordsman. He is equally proficient in both the French and the Italian technique. When at home in Milan he plays a set of tennis, generally with his daughter, Edda, or with some associates of his brother, Arnaldo, the editor of Popolo d'Italia.

Mussolini's driving personality has changed the whole aspect of Italian commercial navigation.
 Ships are being built, new lines started, experiments are being made to speed up ocean-going vessels, and the latest statistics on port activities show that the Port of Genoa, the harbor of Christianophorus, has for the first time in a history of 50 centuries passed Marseilles in the volume of tonnage entering and leaving the two harbors.

"Our future lies in the water," says Mussolini. "We must find room for our surplus people across the seas." Most Italians agree, but they hope that a "sense of justice will make the great Powers see that Italy is in need of territory and that no new wars are necessary to establish a larger place in the sun for the descendants of the world-conquering Romans.

The Fascist Service.
 When news came from London that Leonid Krassin, Soviet ambassador to England, had died suddenly, from the roof of the Russian embassy in Rome, with its golden emblem of hammer and sickle intertwined.

The writer hung around the embassy a while, expecting a band of enthusiastic young Fascists would come along and tear down the emblem of red revolution. The wait was in vain.
 Down at a corner of the Corso Umberto in the evening I heard a Socialist harangue a multitude on the international character of the waiting class I expected a fierce clubbing from the many Fascist listeners. None came. Instead a young fellow asked permission to speak, and remarked that: "The Fascists are not concerned with international roles, but are concerned with the Italian nation.
 You Socialists have always talked about internationalism and have always neglected the nation. It has been our ruin in international relations. You always played the other fellow's game. We Fascists are going to play the Italian game henceforth."

The Black Shirt was applauded by the crowd and the meeting dispersed. It may well be asked what is the role of the Fascists in Italy at the present time, now that opposition has been crushed.

In the background.
 At the busy traffic crossings in Italian cities the police are reinforced by Fascists the moment the rush becomes difficult to handle.
 Fascists guard bridges; they stand in front of Government buildings; they watch the mail, museums and national monuments. But I hasten to add that after a few days in Italy you don't notice them any longer. Their methods of work are peculiar in this respect, that they are always keeping in the background, effacing themselves.

Of course, you see some young fellows whose brand-new uniforms have gone a little to their heads.
 Every man has some little eccentricity. It may be a peculiar trait of character or an unconscious gesture that has become a habit.
 It may also spill beyond the bounds of normality, then it is an obsession. Mussolini has such an obsession. He cannot bear to be shut up in a small room, nor can his nervous system support the sight of grilles from bars in front of a window.
 When he moved into the Palazzo Chigi in Rome, he noticed the network of grille work, an ancient precaution no doubt, in front of the window. He was ready to move into the large workroom that overlooks the Corso, piles of work were waiting for him, there was an army of people in the waiting rooms, officials, foreign diplomats, Fascist chiefs from out of town, newspaper men.

"I will not go into that room," he said, "until you rip off those bars. I could not sit in there 10 minutes without feeling that I was going to suffocate."

Rooms Must Be Airy.

Every room must be airy and big in Mussolini's official home.
 His workroom, a famous historical hall, is an immense place. It is almost bare of furniture. Thick Florentine portraits hang over the door, the floor is inlaid with superb mosaic.

Mussolini sits at the end, a solitary figure, behind a huge, flat-topped desk. He does not look up when anybody is ushered in, but glances at his calendar and states the number of minutes he has available. Instead of talking, Mussolini has now adopted the system of listening. Interviewers must be prepared to tell Mussolini what they think of Fascism and the changes it has brought about in the New Italy.

Mussolini is not a smiling smile.

ing hand-shaker. Even his closest friends admit he is cool and reserved. There is nothing of the half-fellow-well-met about him.
 But he is a good and patient listener, especially if the plan somebody proposes appeals to his imagination. And he must listen to some grandiose schemes.
 The Duce is a generous man.
 Having known hunger and privation, hardships and misery, he cannot bear the sight of equal or poverty. He is always without money, because he gives everything away.

Never Accepted a Cent.

Whatever crimes have been laid at his door, justly or unjustly, nobody will ever be able to level the charge that the Duce sought personal gain. There is no doubt that he has been offered great recompenses by the industrial magnates of his country for saving their business from ruin, but he has never accepted a cent.

The Duce's word is law in Italy.
 He is the dictator. One word, and armies set in motion; a shake of the head, and legions leap to their feet. But there is one matter in which he has failed signally, and that is the question of dress reform.

Some months ago the Duce made plans for a nation-wide dress reform for women. This was to be in conjunction with his striving for a return to the stern morality of ancient Rome. He had the support of the clergy, of course. The Queen of Italy placed herself at the head of a Dress Reform Committee. Designs from medieval Dantesque gowns were made and lectures were given in young ladies' colleges, public schools and Fascist girl clubs. Posters were put up on street corners.

But that is as far as it went.
 The Duce could not win over the smart donnas of Rome and Milan to his schemes. They like to show as much of their charms as the Parisiennes, and they wear their skirts just about an inch shorter today in Rome than they do in Montmartre.

SHARKEY SCORES TECHNICAL KNOCKOUT AND ELIMINATES MIKE M'TIGUE

Dislodged Dental Work Cuts Blood Vessel in Veteran's Mouth in 12th Round

Accident, As Much as Rival's Punches, Caused Irishman's Defeat in Best Fight of Rickard's Tourney, Sports Editor Wray Writes.

By John E. Wray,
(Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.)
NEW YORK, March 4.—Mike McGigue, age 38, will not get a shot at Gene Tunney's world's championship title. But it was not altogether due to Jack Sharkey, his opponent in Tex Rickard's fifth elimination at Madison Square Garden last night, that Mike has been shelved.

Outpointed in six of the first eleven rounds their fight had progressed, the twelfth found the veteran, light heavyweight, canny waiting for a chance to sink his right into a vital spot of the enemy's armor. Then Dame Fortune intervened.

Old Lady Luck picked out an unusual way in which to undo the valiant veteran from County Clare, Ireland. It concerned a bit of dental work of the bridge variety. Mike at the time was, as all through the fight, backing slowly in front of his 26-pound heavier foe, tentatively pawing him off with his left hand and seeking an opportunity to land his rediscovered knockout punch on the "but-ter" on his opponent.

McPartland Stops Bout.
Suddenly Sharkey rushed, shooting his left. Then he hooked his right to Mike's mouth. Blood began to spurt. It trickled down Mike's chest. Mike spun and ran, but the relentless Sharkey piled on top of him. One, two, one, two—the blows fell as Mike retreated, bleeding badly at the mouth.

Mike was dazed. Sharkey, furious, pounded him about the ring. Then Referee Kid McPartland, himself an old-time fighter and one who knows when a boxer has had enough, split the grizzling pair apart, staining his shirt sleeve red, as he did so.

He led Mike to his chair, where it was discovered that one of Sharkey's blows had dislodged some dental work in Mike's upper jaw, the metal cutting a blood vessel in Mike's cheek. The bout was thereupon awarded to Sharkey on a technical knockout.

And so passed out of the heavy-weight championship the most doughty and determined figure, one Sharkey, Badly Marked at Finish, Showed Respect for M'Tigue's Right

Up to the start of the twelfth round, Mike had given Sharkey a world of trouble. Summarized, the fight showed three rounds for Sharkey, with two even. But that is not the whole story. Sharkey finished with a badly bruised left eye, a split lip and a very sharp, sore respect for Mike's sharp-shooting right.

At the start of the fight it did not seem possible that the bout could go the limit. Sharkey, moon heavily built in every way than his opponent, swarmed atop his foe with all the lust of a man who sees only an old broken-down wreck standing between him and a million dollars. Using a left jab and a hook as his main attack, Sharkey backed McGigue all over the ring for the first two rounds, Mike extending a long left hand to hold off his foe, while waiting a chance to shoot his right into his foe. If Mike backed away it was not in any punillanion spirit, but in one of pure ring tactics. He was there to flatten his foe, not to mumm him up.

McTigue Staggered Rival.
For two rounds Mike practically contented himself with parrying the rushes of his lusty foe. He was not successful always, but he at least saved himself from anything more serious than a bloody nose.

Then, in the third, when he found what Sharkey's stock in trade consisted of, he turned more seriously to the task and began to lay loose the cocked right hand. The crowd shook the building with cheers for the little Irishman.

In the third session he staggered the on-rushing Sharkey repeatedly and gained a margin. In the fourth he damaged Sharkey's eye. In the fifth he at least held him even although tentative Sharkey always kept boring in.

The sixth was Mike's supreme round and it appeared that he was dominating his foe. He shot up Sharkey's stomach with carefully placed rights. Backing away slowly and turning his left shoulder and side toward his foe he let Sharkey waste his strength fruitfully in missed left and right hooks.

Mike suddenly checked Sharkey abruptly with a one-two shot, his right staggering the Bostonian and leaving him wobbling in mid-air as the bell sounded.—Mike looked at his foe and grinned.

Veteran Starts to Weaken.
But it was no time to grin. "Tough will be served," Sharkey, although slowed up, was still the aggressor and Mike made his final try to retain the lead he appeared to have established.

But even at this time he began to fade. Although he twice stood toe to

One Fight, Victory on a Foul Over Wills, Made Jack Sharkey

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, March 4.—Meet Jack Sharkey. For one fight, Jack Sharkey, born Coccoskey, in Binghamton, N. Y., of Lithuanian parentage, might not today be looking forward to a battle for the world's championship.

When, last October, Harry Wills decided that he had enough of talk about fighting and matched himself with Sharkey, few believed that the Bostonian had any more chance than a piece of cheese with a starving rat.

He was known as a big, fast, fairly clever young fellow, without a punch, and it was thought he was being sent to the shambles. But none (not even Harry Wills himself) guessed how far down the doghouse the aging Negro had slipped. And few, therefore, were prepared to see Wills beaten. But he was, even though disqualified on a foul. He was beaten all the way by Sharkey who deserved a better mark than a "four verdict."

One Bout Made Sharkey. Fans who figured that both Dempsey and Tunney had side-stepped Wills began to measure Sharkey's achievement in the light of the champion's respect for Wills' prowess. And so, overnight, Sharkey entered the "logical contender" class.

His victory last night will bring him again another Bostonian, Jim Maloney, with whom he will have more difficulty than he did with McGigue.

Sharkey has the size, the speed, the youth, and possibly the cleverness to enter the title division, although he lacks experience. His record is a drab and unconvincing affair, and his lack of a solid punch against stout resistance seems evident from his record.

Sharkey is six feet or more tall, weighs about 190 pounds day in and day out, is 24 years old and has been fighting only three years. He has been beaten and knocked out—Quentin Romero, the clumsy South American, did that trick to him. He lost to four or five other fighters, including the same Jim Maloney whom he will be asked to meet in the elimination final.

Was Down Seven Times. He has been on the floor many times. Maloney, in a second fight, had him seven times, but finally lost the bout on a foul, through over-exaggeration. Orlando Rivero, a bit of pugilistic flotsam from abroad, had Sharkey kissing the resin. Charley Weinst, that poor husk of a fighter; Bud Gorman, Eddie Record and others defeated him—and within the past two years.

Last year, however, Sharkey was down seven times.

'Peewee' Kaiser Beats Morris in 9 of 10 Rounds

St. Louis Feather Makes Impressive Showing in East Side Contest.

By Jack Alexander.

Johnny "Peewee" Kaiser, exiled St. Louis featherweight, went "over the river" last night and boxed his way to an impressive victory in 10 rounds over Battling Morris of Duluth at the Avenue Theater in East St. Louis. Kaiser had the edge in nine of the 10 sessions and his work was so clever that there was no doubt as to the verdict. Both judges and Referee Byers gave him the decision.

The bout, a scrap to please both the lover of clever boxing and the worshipper of the resounding whop, was one of the best seen in these parts in many months. Morris was aggressive and as durable as leather. Kaiser permitted him to lead, drew him in and peppered him with rights and lefts and as early as the first round appeared to be on the way to victory. Morris was a little over-eager and found himself swinging wild and missing long-range shots in the opening round. He took plenty of punishment but came back clear as a bell.

Morris Wins Fifth Round. As the bout went on Morris shook Peewee with a number of hard blows, but for the most part Kaiser was able to duck Morris' rushes and counter with punches that would have stopped a less rugged opponent. Morris' best round was the fifth, when, after taking a good beating in the two previous sessions and apparently a bit groggy, he came up like a daisy and sailed into Peewee, driving him back to the ropes. The other rounds were Kaiser's by varying margins.

Eddie O'Neill, former Western A. A. U. flyweight champion, in his first professional bout won on a technical knockout over Joe Stua, an East Side boy, Joe's seconds teasing in the towel in the fourth round when it was obvious that he was on the verge of a knockout. The bout was scheduled for six rounds and the weight 115 pounds. O'Neill, who has the earmarks of a corner, methodically battered Stua in every session until he was "soft." Billy Kauffman and Tim Johnson, Negro boxers, fought four rounds in the curtain raiser, the decision going to Kauffman. In a wrestling match following the show, George Roche won in straight falls over Eddie Davies. Except for a few rows on the first floor, the house was filled.

Beautiful, Ferocious Macaw Gives Fitz a Busy Night

The Bath Beach Mystery, Starting With Strange Phone Call, Develops Into a Fight in Bob's Effort to Teach Bird to Talk.

CHAPTER XVI.

OF "RUBY ROBERT" by Robert H. Davis.

It seems perfectly reasonable that in these recollections I should shed some light upon "The Great Bath Beach Mystery," dating back some 20 years.

It broke out of a clear sky, and had its genesis in a telephone message which I received from Super's hotel, Bath Beach, one hot August night, about 10 o'clock.

"I got something to tell you. Can you hear me? The old bird's up against it."

"Stewed. Pled to the lads."

"Sorry, but he's got over that. What do you want me to do?"

"He's locked himself in the house and won't see anybody. He says he's training a parrot to talk. They ain't no parrot there. He's got delirium tremens. You're his friend. You can take it or leave it."

I turned to my devoted wife and informed her that a friend was in trouble—that I must go to him—that I would explain everything when I returned.

I rapped and the door was opened violently and Ruby Robert, clad in an old-fashioned single-piece muslin nightgown, leaped toward me with a burst of cordiality. "Come on in. Ain't this a 'elluva night!'"

I made a swift appraisal of his general condition, the pupils of his eyes and his demeanor. The mysterious message that had come to me earlier in the evening did not seem to be reasonable.

The Friendly Macaw. BOB ushered me into his bedroom and touched a light button. "I'll never forget the spectacle that confronted me. There stood Fitz in his night robes. His thin, damp hair lay in disarray on his forehead."

On the bed nearest the door was a plate of bananas, plums and soda crackers. On the other side of the room, on the footrail of the brass bed, sat a large multicolored macaw. This bird had claws like a tiger and a beak like a pair of ice tongs.

"That's a macaw," said Bob. "I'm teaching 'im to talk."

Bob peeled a large overripe banana and handed it to the macaw, following with a couple of plums, which he lost no time consuming. The crackers were declined.

The bird must have eaten too much, for he couldn't talk that night and we went to bed to try to sleep through a terrific electrical storm. Bob stretching out where I could see him in the frequent flashes of lightning.

A Fighting Bird. OBSERVED through half-closed eyes that the macaw was making a close study of the recumbent scrapper. The green feathers upon his back began to ruffle.

Robert, oblivious to all surroundings, snored fitfully.

Finally, as though all the furnace doors of Tophet had been opened, all the lightnings of heaven blossomed in this conflict of the heavens. A thunderous clap rent the macaw's breast and he uttered a shrill battle call and jumped on the slumbering Mr. Fitzsimmons. He sank his massive curved talons into Bob's kidneys and began to wrangle him.

Bob was the fastest thinker I ever saw in the ring, but the murderous assault of the macaw found him wholly unprepared. He was evidently deep in sleep, but with electricity Robert Prometheus Fitzsimmons leaped from his bed and made a dive for a screen door opening on the garden, through which he passed with the grace of Annette Kellerman. He landed on his face in a bed of sudden midgenette, sweet William and pansies. The macaw stayed with him, pounding his kidneys to a fair-weather. Every blow struck was a foul.

Fitz rose from the mud and dashed up and down the flower

bed. On the fourth trip I saw the parrot and tore him from his fastenings. He struck at me with his beak, which will be a good thing, which will be a good thing, which will be a good thing.

My next imitation was to be a bird. He entered the room. He was covered with mud and in a thoroughly bad humor. The screen door was closed. He climbed on a dive at Bob's legs. On a near the window were two small light bulbs, which Bob had hurt at his antagonist.

By this time the macaw, what groggy, had climbed on a bed. With an effort at position, Bob reached out to strike the bird and the fight a new macaw bit two fingers from the hand that fed him. The bird was on again. I separated the combatants, kicked the parrot to a closet, and shoved Bob into the bathroom.

While Fitz was dousing himself, I closed the door. I was on the floor sat the bird, looking to and fro, picking his back with his own claws. The fighting bird was dead. I closed my eyes. I saw the bird's head over the folded wings of a dead mass, opened the window, and threw Robert Fitzsimmons' state of delirium tremens into the night. He fluttered through the trees, glinting with what few feathers he had left, and disappeared never.

While Fitz was dousing himself, I closed the door. I was on the floor sat the bird, looking to and fro, picking his back with his own claws. The fighting bird was dead. I closed my eyes. I saw the bird's head over the folded wings of a dead mass, opened the window, and threw Robert Fitzsimmons' state of delirium tremens into the night. He fluttered through the trees, glinting with what few feathers he had left, and disappeared never.

bed. On the fourth trip I saw the parrot and tore him from his fastenings. He struck at me with his beak, which will be a good thing, which will be a good thing, which will be a good thing.

My next imitation was to be a bird. He entered the room. He was covered with mud and in a thoroughly bad humor. The screen door was closed. He climbed on a dive at Bob's legs. On a near the window were two small light bulbs, which Bob had hurt at his antagonist.

By this time the macaw, what groggy, had climbed on a bed. With an effort at position, Bob reached out to strike the bird and the fight a new macaw bit two fingers from the hand that fed him. The bird was on again. I separated the combatants, kicked the parrot to a closet, and shoved Bob into the bathroom.

E M'TIGUE HOWLEY INTENDS TO ALTERNATE WILLIAMS AND MILLER IN LEFT FIELD

British to Send 9 Golfers to U. S.

LONDON, March 4.—The Professional Golfers' Association has invited nine players to go to the United States this spring to defend the Ryder cup, which the British team won from the American last year, and also to take part in the American open championship, which will be played at Oakmont, Pa., June 14 to 16.

The players invited are: Aubrey Boomer, Archie Compston, George Duncan, George Gadd, A. G. Havers, Abe Mitchell, Ted Ray, Fred Robson and C. A. Whitcombe. They expect to sail about the middle of May.

On the fourth trip I grabbed the parrot and tore him from his fastenings. He struck at me with his beak and claws. I retaliated by throwing him behind me on the floor.

My next imitation was to put Bob into the room. He was covered with mud and in a thoroughly bad humor. The macaw made a dive at Bob's legs. On a chair near the window were two electric light bulbs, which Bob seized and hurled at his antagonist.

By this time the macaw, somewhat groggy, had climbed on the bed. With an effort at reconciliation, Bob reached out to stroke the bird and call the fight a draw. The macaw bit two fingers nearly off the hand that fed him. The battle was on again. I separated the contestants, kicked the parrot into a closet, and shoved Bob into a bathroom.

While Fitz was gagging I cautiously opened the closet door. Then on the floor sat the bird teetering to and fro, picking his beak with his own claws. I closed my eyes as the folded wings of the sooty den mass opened the window, and threw Robert Fitzsimmons' attack of delirium tremens into the night. He fluttered through the trees, glinting with what few glints he had left, and disappeared forever.

BENNETT IS NOT LIKELY TO WIN REGULAR BERTH

Browns Will Be Able to Throw Strong Offense Against Any Kind of Pitching — Manager Counts on O'Neill and O'Rourke.

ST. LOUIS, March 4.—Manager Howley of the Browns made a special correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

There is one group of Browns players down here that has nothing in the world to worry about. There are five of them, and Manager Howley intends to carry five of them in their roles all season. Referring to the outfielders, Howley said: "I have Harry Rice, Fred Schulte, and Edmund 'Bing' Miller. There are no more outfielders in camp, so the quintet is not likely to change during the coming season."

At the present moment, only one field is being fought for. Manager Howley already has made it known that Rice will occupy right field, Schulte will be the center fielder, and Miller will battle for the left fielding position. Taking chance, it might be stated that Howley's idea is, at the start of the season, to alternate Williams and Miller in left, depending upon the formation of the opposition pitcher.

The Browns will be well fixed against any kind of hurling. Against a left-hander, they can draw in a team, say, as follows: In the outfield, Rice, Schulte and Miller; in the infield, Sisler, Melillo, O'Rourke, Gerber or O. Miller and Mullen. Behind the plate, Schulte, Schang or Dixon. Only Rice and Sisler are left-hand hitters in the lineup—Schang "turns around" and Rice and Sisler are not especially weak against right-handers. A right-hander, Williams or Bennett could slip into left without weakening the offense.

Williams loses his ground. Williams is going a great pace in camp. Ken has a lot of fine points but not always is he in command. He broods after a bad day and is, according to rumor, "a hard man to get along with." He has shown nothing of that in the present camp. Whether he knows that there's a fight on his job or not, he jumped into the work very willingly and sought a struggle to the face of "dangerous Dan" Howley when he started swinging the big bat.

The best figures of possible offensive infield, outfield and hitting groups, show a pretty nice thing average. There might be a change with 230; Sisler, 239 (to be his lowest mark in years, 231); Melillo, 235; Ois Miller, 231 and Mullen, 237. In the outfield, Rice, 312; Schulte, 347 and Miller, 322.

The Browns are a question mark, but it is true. Just how much of an improvement has been made over 1926 is yet to be made clear. Some of the improvements, however, are obvious. No one believes Sisler will not be a better player without the troubles of a manager. No one doubts that Sisler's 1926 batting mark is his real speed.

Mullen Expected to Star. In the other infield positions, Mullen alone can tell just what has been done. According to all indications, Mullen should star at second and a healthy Melillo at second and a big improvement over the sickly kid of a year ago. The Browns haven't had a real center fielder, one accustomed to play that position since Bill Jacobson departed; now, they have Schulte and his high rating by the experts seems to be deserved. O'Neill, the new star, the older who came out of big league company a year or so back, will be a great help behind the bat. In the box, there will be some real pitchers.

Frank O'Rourke, either as an utility man or a regular, is greatly depended upon by Howley. O'Rourke, used only irregularly in Detroit last season, didn't hit much. In there as a regular he should be a much faster clip.

But, everything considered, time can save the question of the season and how they will fare in the campaign of 1927.

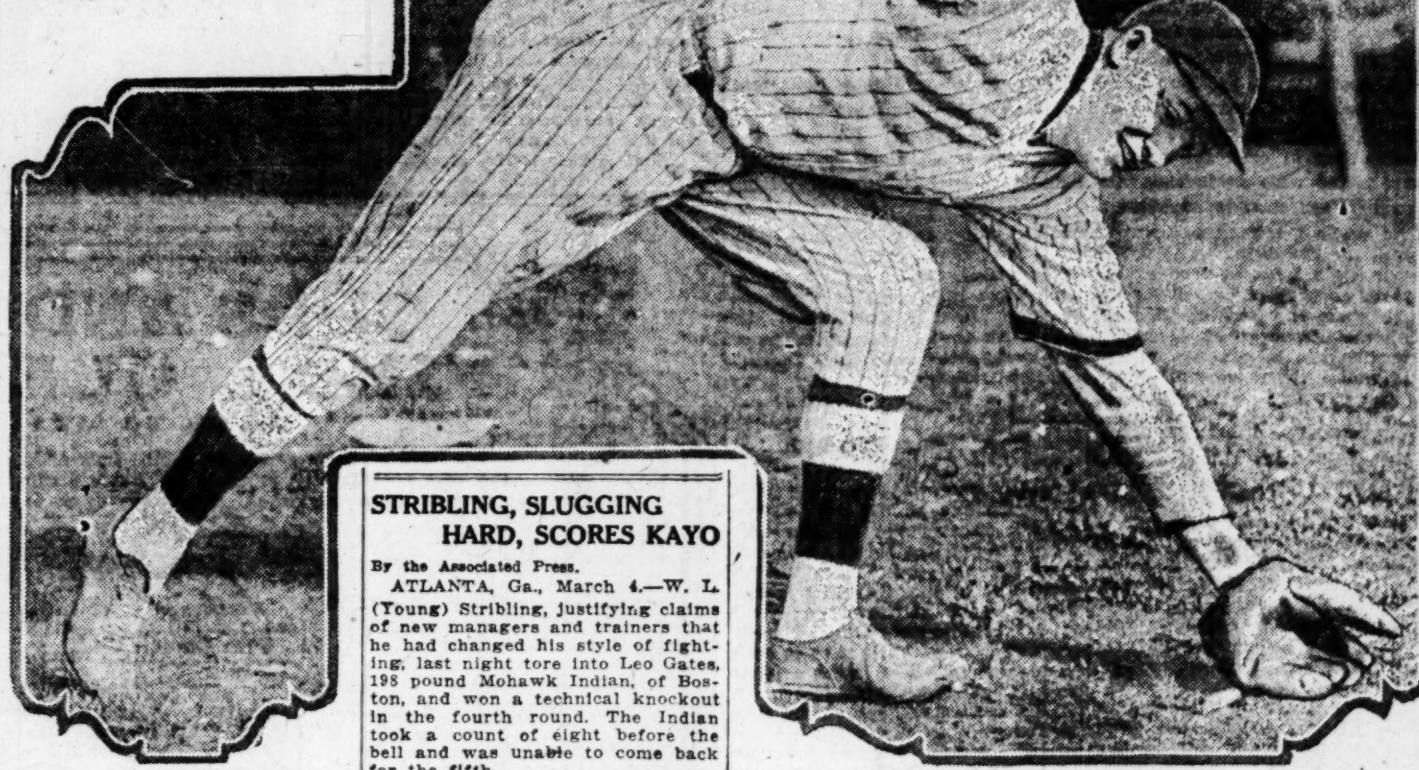

Howley Saver Swims 25 MILES IN TANK. ST. LOUIS, March 4.—Richard A. Howley, 42, for 20 years a life guard, has just completed a 25-mile swim in the Y. M. C. A. tank.

Howley swam the distance in 19 hours but took two days. Yesterday he did nine miles in seven hours and the day before negotiated miles in 12 hours.

Petersen Gets Decision. ST. LOUIS, March 4.—By Petersen, Michigan's champion middleweight, won a newspaper decision over Al Walther, a St. Louis boxer, in a 12-round bout.

Semipro Star Who Is Trying Out With Browns

PAUL KRESS, California product, who is competing for the shortstop berth. He is but 20 years of age and is considered a fine prospect by Manager Howley. He was sent to the Browns by Wilbur Butler, old-time major league player.

STIRLING, SLUGGING HARD, SCORES KAYO

By the Associated Press. ATLANTA, Ga., March 4.—W. L. (Young) Stirling, justifying claims of new managers and trainers that he had changed his style of fighting, last night tore into Leo Gates, 192 pound Mohawk Indian, of Boston, and won a technical knockout in the fourth round. The Indian took a count of eight before the bell and was unable to come back for the fifth.

Rommel Walks Nine, Hits One Batter in Three Innings

Eddie Collins Shows No Trace of Leg Injury in Athletics' Practice Game—Cummings, Giants' Recruit Catcher, Is Injured.

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—The Philadelphia Athletics are rapidly rounding into form at their training quarters in Fort Myers, Fla. They played their first nine-inning game yesterday.

Lefty Grove, in the third inning he was on the mound, held the opposing team, headed by Eddie Collins, hitless and gave only one base on balls. Rommel gave nine passes and hit one man in the three innings he worked. Collins was spry and showed no trace of his leg injury of last year. Zach Wheat hit the ball hard. Cochrane got a homer.

At the Phillies' camp at Bradenton, Fla., the workouts have been light. The batters are coming along satisfactorily.

McFadden Impresses. By the Associated Press. BOSTON, March 4.—The Braves have an auspicious start in batting. There were two homers in the first practice game at St. Petersburg, by Hogan and Gautreaux.

In New Orleans an unexpectedly early arrival of 10 more players surprised Bill Carrigan, the Red Sox manager. McFadden shaped up well in pitching practice, as did Jack Wilson, young six-footer.

Giant Catcher Injured. By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, March 4.—Uncle Wilbert Robinson, pilot of the Brooklyn Robins, was quite upset today at the training camp in Clearwater, Fla., not over his team, which is rounding into splendid shape, but over a baseball rammed into his stomach at express-train speed from the bat of one of his athletes.

A mighty foul, glancing from Jess Petty's bat, woofed squarely into Robbie's generous vest.

Wiley Moore, a big right-hand pitcher from Oklahoma, is impressing the athletes working out at the Yankee camp at St. Petersburg. He looks like Jack Scott, former Giant hurler, and pitches like him.

The arrival of Bill Terry to complete a first-string infield, and possible serious injury to Jack Cummings, promising catcher, were the standout events at the Giants' park in Sarasota. Cummings split his throwing hand in drill.

Senators to Play Braves. By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 4.—The unofficial opening game of major league baseball will be played tomorrow between the Boston Nationals and the Washington Senators at the latter's training camp at Tampa, Fla.

Rookies for the main part will form the two nines, although for a few innings Manager Harter plans to use his regulars. Manager Bancroft, who will take his Braves from St. Petersburg to Tampa, has not announced his lineup.

Continuance of the recent spell of wintry weather may mean both clubs will give their rookies full away in the game, the managers indicated.

Jones Ready to Sign. By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, March 4.—With the Chicago Cubs' $50,000 minor league shortstop, Elwood English, signed at last, and on the way to camp, Manager Joe McCarthy has heard authoritative reports that his last holdout, Percy Lee Jones, a left-

Death Takes Jimmy Delaney

St. Paul Light Heavy Boxer Succumbs to Infection From Injured Arm.

By the Associated Press. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 4.—Jimmy Delaney, 24 years old, St. Paul light heavyweight boxer, died here early today from blood poisoning resulting from an injury to an arm, suffered in a fight with Maxie Rosenbloom, at Cincinnati, O., Feb. 14.

Delaney splintered a bone in his left elbow, but failed to realize the extent of the injury until after he had fought Benny Rose at Buffalo 10 days later. Infection developed and two operations and blood transfusions failed to check it.

During his six years as a professional, Delaney engaged in 67 major bouts, some of which were with the leading men of his class. He won 29 and lost nine, with no decision in the others. Nineteen of his victories were knockouts.

Delaney met the late Harry Greb, middleweight champion, three times and twice met Gene Tunney, when the latter was working his way toward the heavyweight title.

Jimmy helped Tommy Gibbons train for his famous fight with Jack Dempsey at Shelby, Mont. He also served as chief sparring partner for Gene Tunney in the latter's successful drive for the heavyweight crown last fall.

Paul Jones and Allen Eustace Wrestle Tonight

Rudy Dusek Meets Vogel, of Germany, in Semifinal at Coliseum.

Allen Eustace of Wakefield, Kan., meets Paul Jones of Lincoln, Neb., in a finish match billed as the heavyweight feature of three wrestling bouts to be contested at the New Coliseum arena tonight. The semiwindup will introduce Carl Vogel, a 225-pound German grappler, in a one-fall trial match with Rudy Dusek of Little Rock, Ark. George Tragos of this city meets Eddie Pope of Oklahoma in a light-heavyweight event, billed as the curtain-raiser. Harry S. Sharpe will referee the main bout, while Harry Cook has been assigned to the prelims.

Jones has defeated Roy Steele, John Maxon, Rudy Dusek and Dick Davis since his arrival here. Eustace defeated Harry Stanzel of Des Moines in a trial engagement at the New Coliseum on Feb. 15. During approximately six years of active competition on the mat the Kansas wrestler has been credited with victories over Jack Taylor, "Toots" Mondt, Ad Santel, Dan Koloff, Jim Browning and Pat McGill and others.

Both men are a fraction over six feet tall and they are both built along rangy physical lines. Eustace enjoys a weight advantage of approximately 10 pounds over Jones, whose normal beamage is 208 pounds.

WESTMINSTER ENDS SEASON WITH VICTORY

FULTON, Mo., March 4.—Westminster College closed its basketball season here last night by defeating Missouri Valley College of Marshall, 42 to 19, for a clean sweep of nine victories and the championship of the Missouri College Union. The Bluejays clinched the title Tuesday by defeating Central Wesleyan on the local court, recording their second consecutive conference championship.

Boyd, Freshman, for Westminster, of Louisiana, Mo., was high point man last night with a total of 14, while Fette, high point scorer in the conference for the season, failed to register a tally.

BABE RUTH PUTS JOHN HANCOCK ON RECORD CONTRACT

NEW YORK, March 4.—BABE RUTH formally signed a contract today to play for the next three years with the New York Yankees for the largest salary ever paid anyone in baseball, player or executive. The contract called for a total payment of $120,000 over the three-year period, or $70,000 a year. Terms between Ruth and the club were agreed upon after a conference two days ago. "Now for some home runs," Ruth remarked with considerable zest after the papers were signed. "I can hardly wait until I get at that old apple again. No, I'm not making any predictions as to how many I'll hit but I'm going after my record of 59."

Ruth will leave for the St. Petersburg (Fla.) camp of the Yankees tomorrow night.

57 Entrants for Indoor Singles

First District Tennis Tourney Will Be Started Tomorrow Afternoon.

Eighty-five players are entered for the first St. Louis District Tennis tournament, which will open at Washington University Field House tomorrow afternoon. Entries closed yesterday, but belated entries in the doubles will be received by Martin Telle, tournament chairman, at the Field House Saturday, between 1 and 5 p. m.

The number of participants in the men's singles will be 57, nearly as many as customarily take part in outdoor district tournaments. So far 25 doubles teams have been entered, and there are 26 entries in the junior singles.

The tournament will open promptly at 1 o'clock and it is probable that only first round men's singles matches will be played in the afternoon and evening. An attempt will be made to arrange the schedule on an hour-by-hour basis. Junior play has been postponed until Monday. Doubles play also will start Monday.

Second Game of Muny Basketball Series Tonight

Leacocks May Clinch Title by Defeating St. Louis U. Freshmen.

The Leacocks and the St. Louis U. Freshmen meet tonight at St. Louis University gymnasium in the second game of the series to determine the Municipal Basketball League champion. The feature, starting at 9 o'clock, will be preceded by a preliminary game at 8 p. m. between the Western Electric quintet and the Western Electric team, also playing their second game.

A victory for the Leacocks tonight will definitely decide the championship but a Freshmen triumph will necessitate a third game which will likely be scheduled for Monday evening. After the showing of Coach Hunter's team in Wednesday's game in which the Leacocks got away with a lead early in the game to win 22-16, a victory for the Billikens tonight would not be surprising.

The nervousness of the youngsters in the first game enabled the Leacocks to run up a 11-0 lead early, but should not hamper the Billikens this evening, and a very interesting battle seems assured.

Western Electric's slight lead over Purina was saved on Wednesday night by the final run, the former winning 26-23. Purina may reverse the decision tonight in the second meeting of the contenders for the Industrial title.

SARA DA SOTA WINS FIRST REGATTA HEAT

TAMPA, Fla., March 4.—Sara Da Sota, driven by Fred Blossom, won the first heat of the Gold Cup Class in the annual Tampa Bay Regatta here yesterday. Her time for the 25 miles was 31 minutes, 24 seconds. Miss Tampa, driven by Otis Beard, was second in 31 minutes, 39 seconds. Palm Beach Days, piloted by Bill Biglow, was out of the race after the first few miles with a broken propeller shaft. Two other heats in the race will be run today and tomorrow. The winner will receive the inter-state trophy.

CLARK EXPECTED TO PROVE VALUABLE ASSET FOR CARDINALS THIS YEAR

New Outfielder Can Hit, But Lacks Polish, Work At Avon Park Indicates

Blades is Progressing, but He Still Runs With a Halt—Pitchers Far Ahead of Batters in Condition, Daily Practices of World Champions Show.

By J. Roy Stockton,
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

AVON PARK, Fla., March 4.—Every workout of the world champion Cardinals is an object lesson, teaching that there is nothing more important to a team than batting practice. The pitchers have had only a week's start on the other athletes in preparing for the 1927 campaign, but the hurlers are so far ahead of the others that it is unfair to expect hitters to hit, even against mediocre pitching.

There are some pretty good swimmers here in Cardinal camp. Lester Bell, Jim Bottomley, Frankie Frisch, Jake Flowers, Bob O'Farrell, Billy Southworth and Danny Clark can swim the ball on the nose in any man's league, but right now they do not make much of a showing against the pitchers who put anything on the ball.

Bill McKeechne is a coach and when he was a player he was an infielder. Therefore, it is not in the books for him to do many fancy tricks on the hurling slab. But yesterday afternoon Bill put a few hooks on his delivery, mixed up slow ones with fast ones, kept them inside and outside, high and low, and many a good batter went wrong. Batters with fat averages missed swings completely and there were few solid wallopers off the pitching of McKeechne and Albin Sathorn. Frisch did send one almost to the distant right field.

However a game is scheduled for Tuesday with the Florida University team. O'Farrell would like to give the boys a little practice in contest before facing the collegians.

McKeechne Valuable Man.
With Threewon still missing, it is probable that McKeechne will be used at shortstop.

He has shown a fine punch at bat and his work during infield practice has been excellent. However the Cardinals are not deceiving themselves. There is only one Threewon and the team will not be contented until Tommy's name is on the dotted line.

It is becoming more apparent each day that Sam Breadon made a good move when he selected Bill McKeechne as first assistant to Manager O'Farrell. The former leader of the Pirates, who won a pennant and world series under his management, has gained the confidence of every man on the squad and there is no harder worker in camp. Bill hits fungo and bats to the infield, gives pointers to young pitchers and catchers and is busy every minute of the day. Farrell is very fortunate to have McKeechne at his command. Bill is a quiet worker and the more you see of him the more you realize his worth.

These are colorful sweater coats that the Cardinals are sporting. The boys are wearing them these cold days and the combination of the flaming red and the green grass of the field makes a pretty picture. The coats are lined with soft leather and are reversible and are doing duty on and off the field during the cold spell.

Crawl Kick Too Tiring When Employed in Longer Swim Dashes, Coach Eilers Finds

This is the fifth in a series of articles on speeding swimming by Coach Eilers of the Bears' tank team. In previous articles Eilers has touched on general requirements for dash event swimmers, training for the sprints and stroke to be used in short dashes. The next article will be published Sunday.

SPEED SWIMMING

By ARTHUR E. EILERS, Swimming Coach, Washington University.

Fifth Article—The 220 and the 440.
The getaway in the 220 and 440 yard races is not quite so important as in the shorter sprints, for the reason that there is more chance to make up for a momentary loss of time at the start. However, the starting line of even the quarter-mile event is no place for loafing. There is the same psychology in the matter that there is about getting a good or bad start in anything.

The single overhand arm stroke is used for the distances to which this article relates, as well as for 50 yards and 100 yards, but the leg stroke changes. The crawl kick, which has already been described, is too tiring to be practical except in swimming the shorter distances. For the 220-yard and 440-yard events we are using a combination of the crawl kick and the trudgion, or "scissors" kick, although some instructors prefer the trudgion kick alone.

Use Varied Kick.
Our men use two crawl kicks, and then a wide scissors, in which one leg goes forward, almost straight at the knee, and the other backward, bent at the knee. The two feet then being brought together in a quick sweep, which straightens the legs.

The scissors can only be used, of course, when the body has been rolled slightly to one side by the arm stroke. It is when the swimmer's body is in such position that he is facing straight downward that we put in the crawl kicks, to give the feet something to do, rather than to allow them to remain idle until the body is rolled so that the next scissors kick can be taken. The crawl kick, part of the combination used in swimming the longer distances, is executed more slowly than the crawl kick for the shorter distances, and the arms keep time with both the crawl and scissors kicks.

Must Conserve Strength.
The swimmer must conserve his strength somewhat in covering the longer distances. His pace will be a trifle slower, and he will take more time on the turns. Whereas in the shorter sprints the turn is made almost entirely under water, the swimmer in the longer races turns above water, takes a trifle more time in doing it than is used in the shorter races, takes a trifle more time to get his feet well placed against the end of the pool for the push off, and coasts a trifle longer before starting to swim again. In short, he makes the race a series of sprints, with just a bit of rest in between. Instead of one continuous sprint.

LONDOS EXONERATED OF MAT FRAUD CHARGE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 4.—Jimmy Londos, Greek wrestler, has been exonerated of all charges in connection with an alleged wrestling match fraud in Jackson, Tenn., in which Mike Cassarras claims he lost $12,000.

Judge M. R. Patterson yesterday dismissed the warrant against Londos, which Cassarras obtained Jan. 8. The order also abolished the $5,000 bond under which Londos was held.

how much increase of distance slows speed, we have one man who swims 220 yards in 2 minutes and 40 seconds, while his time for 440 yards is 6 minutes. These distances are selected for the comparison because one is exactly twice that of the other. It will be noted that the time for the longer distance is 40 seconds more than twice for the shorter distance.

Caddie Master Leads Open Field

Bill Burke, With 73-70, One Stroke Better Than Armour and Espinosa.

By the Associated Press.
SANFORD, Fla., March 4.—Bill Burke, Danville, Ky., led a fast field today in the first 36 holes of central Florida open golf championship with a card of 73-70-142. The caddy master, who won the Clearwater open and finished second at Bellair, continued to play excellent golf over the Sanford Country Club course yesterday in the opening round.

Tommy Armour, Washington, and Al Espinosa, Chicago, were tied for second at 144, and Hagau, Pasadena, and Willie New York, were tied for third at 145. Bobby Cruikshank, one of three big open tournaments in winter, took 154 for the day and was in a tie for fifteenth place. Burke was paired with Hagau and appeared as calm playing as the professional champion might be in a practice round, had a fine putting touch, dropped a number of long which put him two shots ahead of Hagau at the end of the day.

Hagen, after playing nine in 34, tried to hammer a shot across the orchard at the low tenth, hit a tree, then a hole. He also played the eleventh badly and finished morning with 74. In the afternoon he played well and returned a 73 in Hagen's first tournament start in Florida this year.

This modern age discriminates—and smokes Camels

THIS age is the hardest to satisfy—it's the most discriminating age ever known. That's why it goes to Camel for cigarette enjoyment. It takes real tobacco to satisfy modern smokers and Camels are made of the choicest tobaccos grown, marvelously blended. Smokers of today are right in demanding Camels; no better cigarettes are made, regardless of price.

To seek a real smoke is to find Camel—the choice of the modern world. Camels are a revelation of goodness, always mellow, smooth and mild. This age shows the way to smoke contentment—

American Trio Now Hot Favorites—Horemans Meets Matsuyama.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 4.—American billiard players loom as favorites over stars of four foreign countries in the 18.2 balkline world's championship tournament here as a result of the first-round matches.

The three Americans, Willie Hoppe of New York, present champion Jake Schaefer of Chicago, a former titlist, and Welker Cochran of California, have come through their preliminary rounds with victories. DEATH PENALTY FOR ROBBERY

BILL PASSED BY THE HOUSE

Measure Fixing Maximum in Case of Use of Firearms in Holdups Now Goes to Senate.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 4.—A bill prescribing death as the maximum penalty for robbery, perpetrated with the aid of firearms or other dangerous weapons, was passed today by the House, 103 to 15, and now goes to the Senate.

Representative Carl J. Henry of Bates County introduced the measure, which fixes the punishment for such robberies at 20 years' imprisonment to death. A similar bill was passed by the House in the 1925 session, but it died on the Senate calendar at the close of the session. The Senate has passed a bill, introducing electrocution for hanging, in carrying out legal executions in Missouri, and the bill now is pending in the House.

Another bill introduced in the House by Representative George F. Love of St. Louis County would abolish capital punishment. Hege was attorney for Robert Johnson, Negro, who was hanged at Clayton last week for a criminal attack upon a woman in Webster Groves. The House also passed a bill by Representative George Cross of Cape Girardeau County, which would make the zoning enabling law passed in 1925 ineligibility for all incorporated cities, towns and villages in the State.

STOCKS DOWN DEADLOCK OF SENATE

Speculative Element Views With Alarm Possibility of Extra Session of Congress
With Its Uncertainties.

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES.
End of day: 148.00
High: 149.00
Low: 147.00
Range: 2.00
Total volume: 1,014,700 shares
Total value: $148,700,000

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 4.—The Evening Post in its corporate financial review today says:

"Too much Congressional filibustering, raising the question of an extra session put the brakes on another forward movement in security prices on the stock market today after General Motors had soared to a new high record for the year and market had given signs of a further general recovery. Speculators for the decline retreated, however, and with a concerted attack depressed prices although the latter after a few scattered specialties had proved vulnerable spots. The volume of business fell below 2,000,000 shares, but the undertone was firm in most sectors."

Banks Call Loans.

"Aside from the political developments in the capital news events were rather colorless. The weekly mercantile reviews, emphasized spotted conditions in industrial circles with indications of a recession in retail trade below last year. Conservation was marked in wholesale markets, it was pointed out and although employment conditions improved, the general trade outlook was not better than fair. Credit conditions remained satisfactory, money being abundantly offered at 4 per cent with quotations outside the exchange as low as 3 1/2 per cent. This ease in money developed in the face of calling of loans by banks to the extent of about $15,000,000. Disappointment over the absence of important developments at the annual meeting of Baldwin stockholders was reflected in a setback. Statistics issued by the Bureau of mines revealed a substantial increase in gasoline and crude oil stocks in January failed to disturb traders holding oil shares, oil holding generally steady and moving higher. Pool operations were resumed in some of the specialties in spite of weakness in other groups."

Substantial Decline.

"Instead of registering low over the adjournment of Congress, Wall Street showed a tendency to view with alarm the possibility of an extra session to consider the defense bill and other important legislation. Prospects of a session of the new Congress at this time were more pleasing to the speculative community, which has learned to fear political developments in Washington. Whether this uncertainty was the dominating factor in the markets reaction after opening higher was a question, however, for in some quarters there was an inclination to attribute it to a natural reaction from yesterday's strong recovery. When speculators for the decline succeeded in uncovering a few weak spots among the specialties a new drive was launched against several of the leading industrial favorites such as General Motors, Studebaker, Allied Chemical, U. S. Steel and others. This movement was sufficient to cause a substantial setback. General Motors falling from around 172 to below 167, selling of Continental Baking Co. shares, resulting in a sharp break, and Wilson preferred tend to unsettle the list."

Exchange Chances Small.

"Fluctuations in the foreign exchange market were again mixed and generally small. Sterling remained firm at $4.85, while gold continued in demand and scored a fair sized gain. Spanish rates worked higher and lire moved a trifle forward but French rates eased off slightly."

Cotton Down, Grains Up.

"Prices in the grain and commodity markets moved irregularly, cotton falling sharply under the weight of liquidation by traders who felt the recovery had gone as far as was warranted. Moreover some slackening in trade buying was regarded as significant. Grain values, on the other hand, stiffened notably May wheat contracts rallying more than a cent and corn displaying a firm undertone."

JANUARY EXPORT TRADE INCREASE IS DISTRIBUTED

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Increase in the January export trade of the United States was 10.7 per cent over the same month of 1926, according to figures today issued by the Commerce Department in its monthly report.

The Commerce Department in its report said that the increase in the January export trade was 10.7 per cent over the same month of 1926, according to figures today issued by the Commerce Department in its monthly report.

Plaintiff Rests in $20,000,000 Suit.
By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 4.—The case for the plaintiff has been completed in the suit of Angelo M. Ellison, former elevator operator, to obtain the $20,000,000 estate of his benefactor, Edward F. Scaries, late Methuen, Mass., reclusive, and one of the two defendants was exonerated of all charges. The action was brought by Ellison against Arthur T. Walker, Scaries' secretary, and Lewis L. Delafeld, who drew the Scaries will. Ellison charged that Walker used undue influence in causing the reclusive to cut Ell-son off with only $10,000 and to leave himself the bulk of the estate. He charged Delafeld with delaying execution of the will until a few days before Scaries died. Motions were made to have the charges dropped against both defendants. The judge granted the motion in so far as it affected Delafeld.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

A Daily Knowledge Test

NEARLY everyone harbors the idea—secretly, in most cases—that he, or she, knows just a little bit more about most things than the other fellow. Perhaps he has learned a great many things over a long period of time, but does he remember them? DO YOU?

Here are 10 questions, the answers to which you probably knew at some time or another. Can you answer them now?

Ten questions will be published every day on this page. See how many you can answer. Credit yourself with 10 points for each question correctly answered, and at the end of the week add your daily average totals and divide by six to get your weekly average. It's a splendid game for all the family for the evening. See how many questions each can answer, and keep their averages along with your own.

The answers to the questions printed below will be found on page 54 of this section TODAY. Don't look at them until you have written your answers, then you can refer to them to check your score for the day.

- 1—Who was the Greek God of Love?
- 2—What country owns Greenland?
- 3—What actress was the first in this country to play Peter Pan?
- 4—Who wrote Peter Pan?
- 5—What was the name of the man who succeeded Abraham Lincoln to the Presidency?
- 6—Who wrote "The Shepherd of the Hills"?
- 7—Who was the father of the Single Tax?
- 8—What two planets are nearest the earth?
- 9—How many feet in a rod?
- 10—What is the chief difference between a sword and a sabre?

The Woman of It

By MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

SINCE WOMEN MUST TALK!

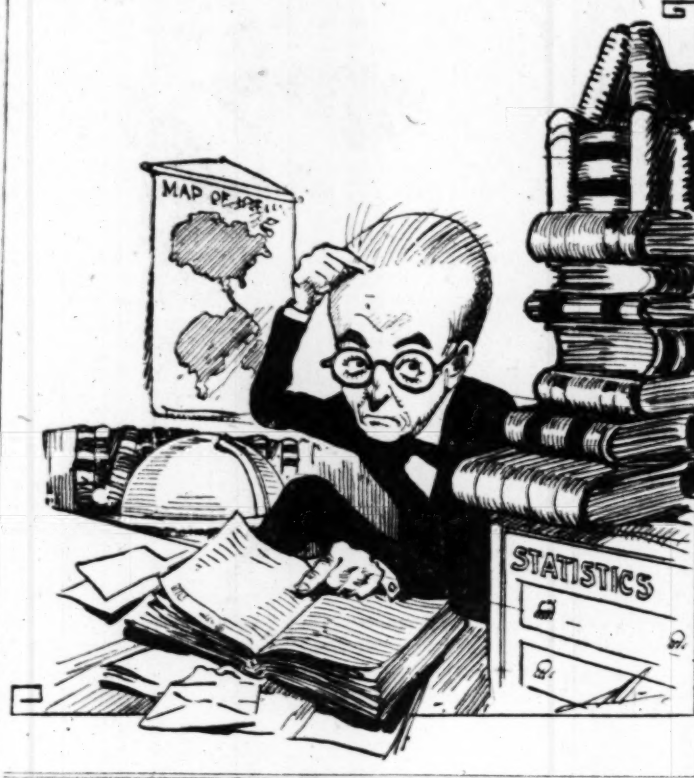

WOMEN, by a proclamation of (male), are the talkers of the sex. It happens to be our conviction that men go through several better in loquacity; one of the most effective and ironic dramatic climaxes is the last curtain of Shaw's "Man and Superman," when Ann looks with fond pride at her captured John and begs him to go on "talking—talking—TALKING!" That's how it is, in our opinion. Nevertheless, we admit that women talk a lot. Also, they teach the baby to talk. So wouldn't it be splendid if women everywhere would take a mighty resolve to talk better!

The General Federation of Women's Clubs has reached this conclusion, and has proclaimed a Better American Speech week—this week. Nobody is more fed up on "weeks" than we; never did we imagine ourself cheering for one. We don't, as a matter of fact, entirely subscribe to a "Better American Speech WEEK"—we wish the Federation would urge on all women "Better American Speech" for a month, a year, a century! Maybe by that time the women would have taught everyone else to speak the English language, clearly, correctly, beautifully.

To work for the elimination of sloppy speech, that offense against manners, taste and ears, would be a splendid crusade for women. Good heavens, how much ugly, barbarous talking we all have to bear! You easily recall some of the worst conversational crimes heap-abouts: the New York "oi" in such words as "girl" and "hurt"—the only sound worse than that is the "o" which the Middle Westerner gives to both these words; the drawled diphthong which changes "brown" into "bra-own"—that's one of New Jersey's crimes; the utterly atrocious Brooklyn "er" for "all"; the ugly flat "a" in such words as "half" and even in "aunt"—as a New England child, how we loathed hearing our New York cousin call our favorite aunt her "aunt!"

Not that New England hasn't its own sins of speech; notably, the dropped "r" of the present participle—that contaminated even one of the Western Union's canned valentines; and the "oo-ing of 'u' in such words as 'institution.' The Southern's 'ah' for the clean cut 'it' is less hard on the ear, still it's incorrect. To the dispassionate listener, the talk of many a well-bred Southerner, despite his or her beautiful voice, is too suggestive of the talk of one's colored cook. (We hope no Southern lady comes after us with a horsewhip, but it's true!) As for "gotcha" and "gonna" and "canehu," probably nowhere in America is one safe from such assaults on the auditory nerves.

No, this is not highbrow hyper-sensitiveness. It's the expression of a point of view based on a decent respect for our common heritage—the beautiful, various, euphonious language of Shakespeare and Shelley and Rupert Brooke and Poe and James Branch Cabell and the Lincoln of the Gettysburg

The Beauty Shop

By Frances Olivier

SHE was built on severe, rather "nouveau art" lines. Mostly straight, uncompromising lines, and almost no curves at all.

VISITOR—Up until a very short while ago I had a superiority complex—my fashionable leanness. I was the envy of my women friends and the despair of my relatives. The friends asked me how I did it and the relatives asked me why I did it and then launched into interminable sermons about my health.

The other day, though, a plump enemy of mine gave a tea to which she had asked a well known painter. The asking didn't stop there, however. Before myself and another in the 88-pound class she introduced in a voice audible to everybody present if the artist saw any beauty in thin women. And he being notorious for his bad manners as well as his fixed opinions replied: "Thin women are useful—clothes trees."

The party was stupid to begin with, but that particular observation made it simply unbearable to me. On the other hand, it made me pause to think and to wonder if the ironing board or visiting card type of figure is really attractive after all. Women like it, of course, but after all we are not out for the admiration of women, are we? Deep, deep down, we'd much prefer their envy.

BEAUTY SPECIALIST—And deep, deep down, I have a feeling that most men in spite of what they say by way of being amiable, prefer the allure of curves. Because in his heart of hearts your average male is thousands of years behind the fashion at least where his ideal of woman is concerned. So now to help you bend a few of those long lines of yours to fit the ideal of artist and of man.

A slower pace is the first requisite. More sleep, at least 10 hours of it out of every 24; less hurrying and worrying; more leisurely meals. You must likely know all the fattening foods. So I shall simply advise you to eat all the things that formerly you shunned: plenty of milk, a judicious amount of sweets and pastry, lots of butter, potatoes, beans, thick soups and water with your meals.

But you must eat slowly. Otherwise you will get indigestion, and the wear and tear on the nervous system of that so popular ailment will only result in making you leaner than you already are.

For the leanness that persists in spots, bony arms, for example, gentle massage with melted cocoa butter is beneficial. By gentle massage, I mean kneading the skin with a light yet firm pressure of the fingers.

Hot baths you must eschew altogether—they are the special property of the embonpoint. Warm baths and cold showers are for you. And so is a light heart and a serene mind and a short swim about once a week. You have heard before, most probably, that swimming is the great equalizer. It makes the fat and the lean alike conform to the "just right" standard of beauty.

Pre-Tubercular Influences.

By CHAS. A. L. REED, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association.

THE other day, at a fine private school for boys, I noticed two lads of probably nine and ten respectively, whose appearance startled me. I saw at a glance that they were of the type that we call pre-tubercular. They had lived all their lives in the city. Their parents had wisely sent them to rural surroundings where they might enjoy the benefits of much exercise in the open air.

It should be remembered that there are two groups of factors that tend to induce the pre-tubercular state. One group embraces both hereditary and surrounding influences. The other group comes under the heading of the physical condition of the child.

The importance of infected environment is paramount. It varies with the degree of poverty and overcrowding in the home. A child who has lived long and in close contact with tuberculosis in poor surroundings must be suspected as pre-tubercular, no matter how good is its physical condition. The future of the child whose family is tuberculous but can afford to give it good surroundings is much more doubtful.

It is very difficult to distinguish between a child whose physical constitution predisposes it to tuberculosis and a child who is simply delicate, for the two are not the same. What has actually been found is that children who are notably debilitated after one of the diseases of childhood, especially measles and chickenpox, are liable to develop consumption unless special care is taken with them. It is for this reason if for no other that these diseases ought to be avoided when possible.

Many children have what is called a "tuberculous diathesis," which means a soil on which consumption naturally flourishes. In these cases it may take many years to develop the disease itself. Hippocrates, who lived nearly 500 years before Christ, noted that the form of body peculiar to these subjects "was smooth and whitish, resembling a lily," and "with shoulders having the appearance of wings."

"Some authors divide delicate children into two broad classes: the tuberculous with bright eyes, oval face, thin skin, narrow nose and long thin bones, and the so-called scrofulous, with heavy figure, thick lips, opaque skin, large hands and large, thick bones."

The kind of child who is most liable to tuberculosis is a portrait something like the following: It is often "beautiful," with fine, dry and delicately tinted skin. The whites of the eyes are unusually clear and the lashes are long and silky. The eyebrows are high and arched and the hair of the scalp is soft and long. The teeth are often unusually good. The palate may be pale, high and narrow.

There is a complaint unusually often of sore throat, and is liable to colds and tonsillitis. The neck is long and thin, with a conspicuous Adam's apple. The chest is generally flat and thin, with prominent veins. There is sometimes excessive growth of hair in the middle of the back. The arms are long and thin, and the finger-joints large. The child can often bend its fingers back unusually far. The general nutrition may be subnormal and the child may be anemic.

Repeated colds need not throw a child under suspicion, and the only sign of this sort which may cause justifiable uneasiness is a protracted cough. Some authorities say, however, that when nasal catarrh is persistent and causes a chronic inflammation of the nostrils and upper lip the child may be suspected.

Few children show all these signs, but a child showing many of them is more likely to succumb to tuberculosis than a child who shows none. If the child is also living in a tuberculous environment every step should be taken to safeguard its health, or to remove it on the first positive appearance of active disease.

If you give attention to these signs you will know how to detect the pre-tubercular state, and, under the guidance of your physician, will know how to control it before actual tuberculosis sets in.

PERFECTION.

OH, I have waited long in vain with thirst of heart and soul to hear the perfect song's refrain across the silence roll! And though there sprang from many a thought love, tenderness and cheer, I listened for the perfect note to break upon my ear. Oh, I have waited, sad and chill, to greet the masterpiece, the scene at which my pulse would thrill and all my longing cease; and though from many a mighty hand fresh beauty break upon my ear. Wraps are mainly velvet and satin and often lined with quilted velvet or trimmed with fur. Caps are of three types, those filled into a shoulder yoke, those bloused a low waistline and draw up at front, and circular capes caught closely around the figure. On the right shoulder are worn huge flowers of chiffon, georgette, muslin, of muslin and velvet; ragged chrysanthemums seem to be the favored flower.

BACK TO NATURE PLAN FOR WEAK MINDS

If Your Boy's a Fool, Send Him to the Open Space Where He Can Fight for Subsistence, Suggests Winifred Black.

By WINIFRED BLACK.

IF your boy's a fool, don't send for the specialist—send for the Immigration Board, or somebody who knows about wild, lonely desert places. Then rattle the money together and send your boy out where the water runs deep, and there are as yet no bridges. Send him out where the trees grow tall and nobody has had time to buy the lumber concession. Give him just enough money to live for two or three months—and then let him sink or swim. He'll swim.

Sub-normals don't need men, they need nature. Underwitted folks don't need crowds, they need solitude. Grow up babies will never amount to anything in town; set them in the woods and watch them grow—so say some of the later professors.

Look at the old pioneer stock, say the men of learning—how many defectives do you hear of in their ranks? Those boys had to plow the field and rake the hay and chop the wood; they didn't have any time to get "queer." So have you, if you're watched them.

Besides, silly people always think anyone is "queer" who is different, and when the world finds out how "different" they are the world says they are geniuses. That's quite different again, if you know what I mean.

I used to hear a lot about poor children, how bright they are and how pretty they are, and how strong they are. Why, they'll live through an epidemic of flu that is killing the aristocratic children up on the hill and cough themselves weak and never turn a hair.

And it's true, too—but what does it mean really, do you think, this business of the healthy poor boy and the sick rich boy?

Well, for one thing, it means that the poor boy inherited his father's strong lungs. You can't puddle fire in a furnace or drive logs

MEDITATION OF A MARRIED

By HELEN R.

THE LEISURED

The leisured woman is the world's Lady Rhonda, a British business woman.

This news will fill half the American laughter—and the other half the "leisured woman!"

Most of the women over here get their work at the office, or after they get the kiddies to bed. And then, the really vital "menacing!"

In this fair land, it is the strenuous and then comes home and gets the "menacing!" she is. By padding life for the mortgage, the insurance responsibilities of his soul, she leaves him run around to poker games, join a club with leisured blondes and flappers.

But making life one long sweet, strengthened his backbone or his achievement!

The average man is a born playmate of mischief. It is that son of his who landed in marriage early in life knows he is hustling for the money and Junior to college.

A busy man is always a pretty good woman to "flag" a man who is hustling for the rent money, or pursuing a career.

He doesn't even SEE the "Stop, I mean to acquire so much money, with a sound in high-powered cars, with a morality.

About the only things in this country are a chance to "menace" are the yag-daddies, and they hardly count.

But it's the so-called "leisured" aid to civilization and the greatest

It is she who kept men busy and luxuries and whims, and hustling

It is she who kept them on their feet, and beautify the world!

News That Wa

That which is really new To you no news at all

PETER RABBIT felt like acting foolish. He felt like running and jumping and kicking his heels and doing foolish things. You see, he knew now for certainty that sweet Mistress Pippin would soon arrive. He had wanted to believe it when Striped Blunk had insisted that he wasn't young back to sleep again.

How glad they will be with it were not so far to the Old Briar-patch, for I would very love to tell little Mrs. Pippin about it. But the dear old Pippin was too far away and he wasn't ready to go home yet. He started to look for someone to whom to tell the splendid news.

"I do believe," said Peter to himself, "that I am the very first to discover the sure sign of coming of sweet Mistress Pippin. What fun it will be to tell others. How glad they will be with it were not so far to the Old Briar-patch, for I would very love to tell little Mrs. Pippin about it. But the dear old Pippin was too far away and he wasn't ready to go home yet. He started to look for someone to whom to tell the splendid news."

"Hello, Peter Rabbit!" said he, "what are you looking so happy about?"

Peter gave a happy little hop. He got some great news, Chatterbox. He cried.

"What is it?" demanded Chatterbox. "I don't want to guess. I want to know," retorted Chatterbox. "It's the best news you've heard of a long, long time. Chatterbox, Peter, what is it?" cried Chatterbox impatiently.

"I found a sign," said Peter. "What's that?" Chatterbox asked. "It's a sign that sweet Mistress Pippin will be here soon and it's a sign!" cried Peter. "You don't say," retorted Chatterbox. "Yes, I do," replied Peter. "The sign is running in the maple trees."

U. S. MARINES AT SHANGHAI PARADE THROUGH STREETS

Regimental Showing Made for Exercise of Troops Along 6-Mile March to Business Center.

NOT CONSIDERED AN OFFICIAL LANDING

Cantonese Near Anking as Forces Rush to defend Port of Wubu, 11 Miles Distant.

Shanghai's thousands, which are growing accustomed to the sight of troops marching through the streets, broke into cheers when the band struck up "Over There" as it marched back into the Bund prior to the parade. The parade was the first since the Chinese evacuation of the city.

Not Officially 'Landed.' According to American officials here, the Marines were not officially "landed." The men were merely marching through the streets, though the Chinese fall to see the distinction. A feeling prevails that the United States naval authorities here to land the Marines is a contradiction. The feeling is that Great Britain is made to bear the greatest burden of defense preparations. This feeling was causing anti-Americanism among foreigners here but today's march greatly overcame this feeling.

When the Marines passed the British billets, the Tommies flocked to the streets and stood at attention. The Stars and Stripes and the regimental flag were the sole spots of color in color on Nanking road. The marching column extended almost a mile and a half. Some Chinese bared their heads when the colors passed them.

The movement of Marshal Sun Chang-Fang's troops from the Linkiang front continues. Several thousand have passed through Shanghai to the north. Shantung troops of Gai Chang (Chang Chang) are replacing them.
